Situation in limbo

Huron and county still in impasse over sand trucks

By BOB AMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

The second of two meetings with the Wayne County Road Commission Thursday got two Huron Township officials on television, but kept in limbo the impasse between the two governmental units over huge trucks hauling sand through the township.

Supt. John Puskar and Police Chief John Carney journeyed to downtown Detroit to discuss with the road commission the township's erection of signs rerouting the trucks hauling sand through the township for the Detroit Edison Co. A hearing in Romulus 34th District Court and two lawsuits in Wayne County Circuit Court over the last few months ended with the judge lifting a restraining order against the township and permitting installation of traffic control signs for a 90-day period, Puskar maintained.

The road commission evidently felt slighted that it was not asked for permission by the township to erect the signs and last week threatened to tear them down. This prompted Chief Carney to assign a squad car to patrol the route taken by the trucks from the Sumpter landfill to Monroe and back.

After meeting with the road commission Monday, Puskar and Carney were told the commission wanted a letter from Huron Township requesting permission for the signs. The two men went to the second meeting to hear what the commission planned to do after sending the letter.

The letter informed the road commission that the township had issued a temporary 90-day traffic control order by the police chief prohibiting trucks of over three axles from traveling north on Waltz Road between Will-Carleton Drive and Huron Driver Drive.

That route is taken daily by 80 to 100 empty trucks of the M & B Contracting Co. of Novi on their return trip to the Sumpter landfill. Township officials contend the vehicles are dangerous to motorists and pedestrians, especially when hauling through the Waltz community.

Puskar and Carney arrived early only to find they would not be allowed to speak until the end of the meeting. Much to their surprise, Puskar said, a camera crew showed up from a Detroit television station and the two men were immediately put on the agenda.

Puskar and Carney said the road commission took the township to task for their "shotgun approach" to the whole situation and stuck to its guns in maintaining that the commission should have been asked permission by the township for the signs.

Both men took offense at the road commission's accusation. Chief Carney retorted, "Since early February when this all began, I've talked to everyone, including all levels of the road commission. I exhausted all approaches."

End result of the township's appearance on local television before the road commission, according to Puskar, is that the status quo will be maintained.

"Everything is in limbo for a two-week period. The signs will stay up, and after that time, we are scheduled to meet with the Edison Co., M & B and the road commission," he explained.

Until that time, Chief Carney said his officers will ticket any truck violating the township's traffic control signs. He said one ticket was issued to a truck traveling over the prohibited portion of the route and that officers could have cited more had they arrived early enough one day last week.

"If and when the order becomes permanent, then we will involve the road commission," he said.

Adopted in harmony

Mayor, council work out budget

A special meeting of Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley and city council Thursday night went like clockwork, with the result that the 1978-79 city budget of $11,095,943 was adopted unanimously.

"I've never seen a mayor and council work so well together," commented Larry Moore, finance director, who is entrusted with providing mayor and council with all of the monetary figures needed to work on the budget.

Major changes in the overall budget, slightly from last year, was the merger of the industrial coordinator's department and that of the grants department, and the combining of the ordinance department and the animal control department.

The latter move resulted in the position of one animal control officer being eliminated, Moore said.

Hyle Carmichael, former mayor, is now the city's industrial coordinator. Since the grants department is without a director following the recent resignation of Stephen Bonczek, Carmichael is left with the job of running both departments.

Since the approved budget gives the mayor the money to work with the decisions as to who fulfills specific duties are his.

Carmichael, with a long background in banking and experience in real estate, has had much exposure to industrial matters and financial transactions involving loans.

ID program on trial

Miss Terri Furlong (right), secretary to Romulus Mayor William M. Oakley pins new identification badge on her boss while mayor's receptionist, Mrs. Nita Laine, looks on. Laminated ID card with colored photograph is brainchild of Jay Young, public information officer.

Oakley consented to put the plan on a month's trial. Badges are worn only by city hall employees who come into contact with general public in performance of their duties. (Photo by Jay Young, Romulus public information officer.)

15 Huron candidates will vie in primary

A total of 12 Democrats and three Republicans are seeking nominations to five elective positions in Huron Township in the forthcoming Aug. 8 primary, according to Mrs. Sandra Rhodes, township clerk.

Democrat George W. Moore is running unopposed for the office of Huron Township supervisor, as is Republican Roy Baker. Incumbent Democrat Sup. John Puskar will not seek re-election, but will run for a seat on the township board.

In the race for the nomination for township clerk, incumbent Democrat Rhodes will be opposed for that party's choice by Mary Lou Carey, Republican Shirley A. Burgess is running unopposed for her party.

No Republicans are vying for the treasurer's post, but incumbent Democrat Richard F. Sullivan will be opposed for his party's nomination by Alice M. McGrew, deputy township clerk.

Of the five Democrats and one Republican running for trustee on the Huron Township Board, five are presently employed in various capacities by the township.

Running on the Democrat ticket for trustee are: John Puskar; Ronald Tabor, water department employee; Fred Ashby, part-time police officer; Sidney L. Dent, water meter reader; and Donald Radabaugh.

Incumbent Republican, James E. Jones, assistant bookkeeper in the clerk's office, is unopposed for her party's nomination for board trustee.

In the race for constable, two incumbents, Devere Willard and William Manny are unopposed for the Democrat nomination. No Republicans are in the race.

City, schools join to improve services

A joint task force of city and school officials has been formed in Romulus to provide citizens of the community with more and better services for their tax dollars, it was learned by the Romulus Roman.

According to Jay Young, Romulus public information officer, the group held its second meeting a week ago and came up with a list of six goals it hopes to accomplish out of a total of 40 suggestions submitted at the two sessions.

They are:
1) A jointly published newsletter which would be mailed to all Romulus residents,

2) Involving the Romulus Help Center with local high and junior high school counseling programs,

3) Establishment of regional parks at some of the nine elementary schools in the city through improvement of existing recreational facilities (Hale Creek Elementary School was targeted as a site for one such regional park due to its proximity to 700 residential homes within walking distance from the school.)

4) Distribution of books from the Romulus City Library to city schools by PTA volunteers,

5) Use of school buses for some city programs, including transportation of senior citizens,

6) Joint gatherings of city and school employees and officials.

The task force is composed of: Art McPharlin, principal of Hale Creek Elementary School; Terrell M. LeCesne, principal of Mt. Pleasant Elementary School; Larry Moore, Romulus finance director; and Jay Young, Romulus public information officer.

State police worry sheriff

A meeting slated for July 24 and requested by Wayne County Sheriff William Lucas with Romulus mayor and council will probe the sheriff's concern over the city's desire to have Michigan State Police patrol urban freeways in addition to sheriff's deputies.

A letter from Lucas in mid-June to Mayor William M. Oakley questioned the city's passage of a resolution which allows police troopers to patrol freeways in the city as contained in recent state legislation.

The sheriff asked that the resolution, passed last October, be rescinded by the Romulus City Council and stressed the unnecessary "duplication of services".

Romulus has been patrolled by sheriff's deputies for several years under a contract with Wayne County. Currently, the sheriff's deputies are negotiating with the county for a new wage contract and the city is paying for patrol services on a day-to-day basis for four full-time squad cars around the clock.

Once the new contract is agreed upon, the city will have to pay the difference between the new wage scales and those it is now paying under the old expired contract.

Romulus leads in tax petitions

Norman Easton, lifelong resident of Romulus, turns in more than 400 signatures collected on petitions seeking to place a tax reform proposal of the November ballot to Mel Morgan, chairman of Citizens for Tax Reform in Romulus. Eaton accomplished task despite being on crutches. Morgan said that on a per capita basis, Romulus has collected more signatures on tax petitions than anywhere in the state — more than 2,100 as of two weeks ago. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Medicare: Supplemental insurance needed

(Reprinted as a public service by Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Michigan, with the permission of Blue Cross and Blue Shield of Indiana.)

(Last in a series)

Medicare never was meant to be a full coverage program. It was enacted because private insurance simply was not able to provide adequate coverage for a large enough portion of older people's medical bills without very high premiums.

In the 11 years since the enactment of Medicare, out-of-pocket medical expenses for Medicare-age people have more than doubled.

If you're 65 or over your average yearly medical bill is about $1,400. Of that, Medicare pays about $500.

Since it began in 1966, Medicare has paid a progressively smaller share of your health care dollar. For example, the hospital deductible (the "first dollar" not paid by Medicare) has risen from $40 to the current $144.

In the beginning, the amount Medicare paid for doctors' services was close to the actual prevailing charge. Today, the Medicare allowance can be much less — as little as 30 percent of the actual charge for some services. Nationally, Medicare pays about 60 percent of covered hospital bills and half of covered doctor bills.

Today, if you're 65 or over, you're relying on private health insurance more than ever to protect yourself against major out-of-pocket health care expenses. More than 11 million people over 65 (about 60 percent) own one or more insurance policies in addition to Medicare. And, they pay more than $550 million a year for this private coverage.

So, what's your best health insurance buy? You have many options. There are four general types of programs:

HOSPITAL INDEMNITY pays a fixed amount for each day of hospital or surgical procedure.

MAJOR MEDICAL the best protection for an extended catastrophic illness, but does not pay first dollars because of deductibles which you must pay first.

HEALTH MAINTENANCE ORGANIZATIONS (HMOs) are one-stop centers when you can pay a pre-set annual fee and get a broad range of health services. However, HMOs currently are few and far between, and most won't take on new subscribers over age 65.

MEDICARE COMPLEMENTARY is a specific policy sold under different names by many insurers, designed specifically to fill the Medicare gaps and deductibles.

By far the most popular option is the Medicare supplement type of policy. Your annual premiums will range from about $60 to more than $200, depending on the benefits.

Blue Cross and Blue Shield Plans as well as commercial insurance companies and associations for retired persons sell Medicare supplementary or complementary policies.

There are numerous differences among these policies. You'll find some are short on doctor bill coverage. Some reimburse full prescription drug costs. But a good Medicare supplement policy has three distinct characteristics.

(1) It provides "service" benefits rather than "indemnity" benefits. That is, ones that pay for all or a percentage of actual charges not met by Medicare, rather than ones paying a fixed amount for each type of hospital and medical service. "Service" benefits also automatically keep up with inflation. Indemnity policies go out of date.

(2) A good policy fills as many of Medicare financial gaps as possible. Some offer a major medical program as a part of or as an optional extension of the basic coverage. (Retiree associations' coverages are a different matter. They are designed with separate policies for hospital, medical, nursing home, etc. coverage.)

(3) Your Medicare supplement policy should not have more than a six month "waiting period" during which pre-existing health conditions are not covered.

Whatever your supplemental insurance coverage program provides, do not expect it to cover all of your medical expenses. And, don't expect a combination of policies to do it either. Most insurers coordinate benefits for your protection to see that some people do not make a profit from being ill. This helps to keep everyone's premium down.

Older people often do buy several policies, hoping to fill as many of Medicare's gaps as possible. This is understandable and perfectly legal — but it's expensive and usually duplicates some benefits. Select one coverage that best meets your needs.

Finally, when you need to use your complementary coverage, keep good records and be prepared for some paperwork. If your doctor does not accept assignment and will not file the claim for you, most complementary type policies require you to submit the claim for some of the benefits offered, if you want your money back.

Repairs can cut expense

Michigan could save more than $3.4 billion by resurfacing 20,600 miles of roads before they become too badly worn for routine improvement, according to a study released last week.

With increasing traffic, these deteriorating roads are expected to wear out by 1986 and then will have to be rebuilt at more than four times the cost of resurfacing, according to The Road Information Program (TRIP).

The Washington, D.C. research and information agency found that: —One third of Michigan's paved roads need to be resurfaced within eight years to avoid more costly restoration later.

—It would cost $4.45 billion to rebuild these 20,579 miles of deteriorating roads after they wear out, but only $987.8 million to resurface them instead — a $3.46 billion saving.

—Timely resurfacing would save the equivalent of $581 for each of the state's 5,950,700 drivers.

Traffic in Michigan is expected to increase 48 per cent in the next 15 years, from 58.2 to 86.1 billion vehicles miles per year, according to federal traffic projections.

Michigan already has 12,382 miles of roads that are too badly worn to be resurfaced and must be rebuilt at a cost of $2.67 billion. Four years ago, it would have cost only $384.2 million to resurface them, the study estimated.

TRIP estimated it would cost $3.66 billion, or $457.8 million a year, to catch up on road resurfacing and reconstruction needs by 1986. By comparison, the state, counties and municipalities have budgeted a total of $464 million for fiscal 1978 for all road and bridge work including new construction, the report pointed out.

The annual catch-up costs include $123.5 million to resurface an average of 2,572 miles a year, plus $334.3 million to rebuild an average of 1,548 miles a year. These cost estimates do not account for future inflation, TRIP said.

Nature program offered

A summer junior naturalist program will be held at the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark near Flat Rock every Wednesday, July 12 to Aug. 23 from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m.

Boys and girls ages 10 to 12 will explore topics on energy, wild foods, insects, reptiles and amphibians, Indian lore and others, with emphasis on outside activity.

Pre-registration is necessary. Vehicle entry permits also are required.

For information or registration contact the nature center of Oakwoods Metropark at 782-1255 (Flat Rock).

The medical term for the fear of work is Ergophobia.

Is that applause? No, just neighbors swatting mosquitos

If you're toiling out of doors and you think you hear applause for your efforts, it's more than likely the neighbors slapping mosquitos.

Mosquito numbers are up, but not unusually — Mother Nature gave you a reprieve the last two years (how quickly we forget). Actually, the population has just returned to "normal."

"The combination of frost during spring and lack of rain during the summer of 1977 and 1976 considerably reduced mosquito populations. But this spring was ideal for the development of the pest, which is the typical pattern for Michigan," explained Dr. H.D. Newson, Michigan State University medical entomologist.

If you're curious about what's putting the bite on you, it's the woodland (Aedes) and the overwintering types (Anopheles and Culex); none of which are threats in terms of human disease transmission this time of year.

"Woodland-type mosquitos emerge in early spring from eggs laid last summer and fall and generally are found in nonpolluted water. The Anopheles and Culex are the types that overwinter in attics, garages, woodpiles etc., becoming active as spring warms," Newson said.

About the only place in the state mosquitos are not flying about in great numbers is in Bay and Saginaw counties where a mosquito control district has been established.

"Mosquito breeding pools, detected through NASA satellite photos and the MSU remote sensing unit, pretty much pinpointed areas in which early pest control could be implemented. This is about the only way protection can be obtained," Newson explained.

Until such community-wide action is taken, the local resident has little alternative to slapping, scratching or spraying throughout the summer.

While it's pretty much a losing battle, there are some steps that can be taken to help reduce mosquito numbers around the home. Malathion may provide temporary control, if used to spray shrubbery and tall grasses. Indoors, Dichlorvos "pest strips" of Pyrethrum, used according to directions, may be effective.

Other mosquito preventive measures to use around the home are:

— Get rid of all trash items in your yard which can hold water — they are ideal breeding sites for mosquitos.

— Empty children's plastic wading pool at least weekly and store the pool indoors when not in use.

— Provide tight, insect-proof covers for all permanent water containers such as wells, cisterns, septic tanks and cesspools.

Composting: Trims waste, saves energy

Composting can save energy and reduce solid waste while providing nitrogen and other valuable nutrients to the soil.

It takes five tons of coal to produce one ton of nitrogen fertilizer, so gardeners and homeowners who want to fertilize their gardens and conserve energy can accomplish both by recycling home, lawn and garden wastes.

All vegetable food scraps can be composted. Avoid meat or grease, however. They attract rodents and other animal pests.

To compost in the garden, bury vegetable scraps between rows where you will plant vegetables. Bacteria in the soil will decompose them. Next year, plant where you buried scraps this year and bury scraps where you grew vegetables.

If you have a few bags of leaves left from raking the lawn in the fall, add some each time you bury scraps. This fall, save all your leaves. Shred them somewhat by running over them with a lawnmower. Smaller pieces decay faster. The faster they can break down, the sooner they can contribute valuable nitrogen to the garden.

If you use new sawdust or other fresh mulches, some nitrogen deficiencies may occur. As soil microorganisms break down fresh material, they tie up available nitrogen, and the nitrogen is not given up to the soil until the organisms die.

Enrichment of garden soil is not the only benefit of composting. By recycling household vegetable wastes, leaves and grass clippings, homeowners and gardeners could reduce the demand on sewage treatment plants, city refuse pickup and scarce sanitary landfill sites and, at the same time, recycle valuable natural resources.

If you opt for a separate compost site apart from your garden, make the top of the pile slightly dish-shaped. Rain or other additional water will then collect in the pile instead of running off. Material will decay faster, it it stays moist. And minimizing run-off reduces the potential for water pollution by nutrients leached from the pile.

For more information on composting ask for Extension bulletin E-727, or the "Family Vegetable Garden" series E-824 (I-26).

New dentist in Romulus

Dr. K. Sata performs dental repair on Gary Bingamen in her newly-opened dental suite in Metro Plaza West (Chamber of Commerce building) at 10000 S. Wayne Rd. in Romulus. Looking on is attractive Beverly Harding, one of two dental assistants on duty during office hours.

Dr. K. Sata moves to Romulus

Ultra-modern dental clinic caters to patient's comfort

A much-needed service has come to the community of Romulus in the form of Dr. Kundan B. Sata, who has opened a new dental clinic at Metro Plaza West (Chamber of Commerce Building.)

The 36-year-old Dr. Sata and her staff of two dental assistants have moved into an ultra-modern suite featuring an open concept (no doors to inner rooms) and a luxuriously appointed decor accented with modernistic wallpaper and live plants.

Associated with a dental office in Taylor since 1975, she decided to move to Romulus after talking to Mel Morgan, prominent businessman who owns the plaza, and other city leaders. They convinced her that there was a need for another dentist's office in Romulus, she explained.

Now a bustling community of 28,000 residents, Romulus had only two dentists prior to Dr. Sata's arrival.

Her new office will have two dental chairs, with room for expansion to six, and features the latest and most modern dental equipment. But, her office also caters to the comforts and convenience of her patients as well.

While patients are being worked on by Dr. Sata, they can more easily forget what is going on by watching a television set suspended from the ceiling in front of their eyes or listen to music on stereo headphones, or both, should they so desire.

The television and stereo will help drown out the noises made by dental instruments, making the office visit that much more pleasant.

In addition to injections given to deaden sensitive nerves, Dr. Sata also will have nitrous oxide, more commonly known as "laughing gas", to ease the discomfort which may accompany dental repair work. She also plans to add more dentists to her staff in the future, including an oral surgeon.

Also new to most dental offices is a panoramic X-ray which does away with taking shots of individual teeth. The new electronic machine X-rays the patient's entire mouth with one picture, thus cutting down on total cost and inconvenience to the patient.

Two attractive dental assistants will help Dr. Sata and will be available during office hours for the six days she will be open every week. Beverly Harding and Karen Glenn will aid her in those duties not requiring her professional expertise.

Contributing to the effort made by Dr. Sata to relax the patient before they go in for dental work is a huge four and one-half foot diagonal movie screen in the waiting room that runs continuously. Some of the movies shown will be those enjoyed by children, thus placing their thoughts away from the cavity that may soon have to be filled.

Dr. Sata received a bachelor of dental surgery degree in 1968 from Bombay University and her doctor of dental surgery degree in 1973 from the University of Michigan.

Her husband, Jim is an engineer with the Ford Motor Co. They have two children - a son, Milan, 9, and a daughter, Megha, 3. She enjoys swimming, bowling, stamp collecting and music.

All types of health insurance, including Medicaid, will be honored and senior citizens are invited to visit Dr. Sata's new dental clinic.

Judging from all that her new dental suite has to offer Romulus residents, it looks like Dr. Sata and staff are due for a lengthy stay in the community.

Combined area grant will benefit seniors

Senior citizens from the city of Belleville and townships of Van Buren, Sumpter and Huron will benefit from combined approval of their governmental bodies of an application seeking a $115,759 grant from Wayne County.

The Van Buren Township Board Tuesday night unanimously approved giving the go-ahead for the grant application to Virginia Melcher, director of the Van Buren Township September Day Commission on Aging.

Van Buren's neighboring governmental units also gave the nod to similar legislation because the senior citizen organization encompasses senior citizens from those communities as well.

Should the grant be forthcoming from the federal government to the county, and in turn to Van Buren, the total will be broken down into the following three programs:

- 1) $10,434 for a health screening;
- 2) $51,681 for home services and homemaking chores provided by the September Day organization;
- 3) loans for minor house repairs.

Hale Creek parents visit kids' school mall

On June 8, 1978, more than 300 parents visited Hale Creek Elementary School to shop in its "Magical Shopping Mall". The teacher-centered program had students from each grade, kindergarten through sixth, selling merchandise and services. The students had been busy since early April making items to sell at the mall. Profits of more than $500 will be used to purchase educational equipment for the school.

The career education shopping mall was the culminating activity of a school-wide career education unit that stressed manufacturing, advertising, promoting, and selling of objects and services provided by the teachers and students.

At the shopping mall, parents ate a fancy meal prepared and served by sixth grade students. Parents made reservations, were shown to a table and ordered from a student-made menu.

Parents dropped their children off at the "Theater" to see an Abbot and Costello movie while they did their shopping. Popcorn and treats for family pets were sold by kindergarten students. The first and second graders sold seashells, cookies, flowers, nicknacks, and baked goods.

A scrumptious cake was the prize at the third grade Cake Walk. Third graders also sold plants, plant-watchers, and book markers. Fourth graders made and sold corsages, hand made flowers and coat hangers. The fifth grade held a gigantic rummage sale. Sixth graders also had a make-up salon where adults were painted like clowns.

Party slated July 25

By BOBAMEEN
ANP Staff Writer

Elvera A. Fischer, "Tootie" to her friends at Romulus City Hall, will be honored Tuesday, July 25, with a party for her 25 years of dedicated service with the city.

Friends and acquaintances of probably the most familiar face in Romulus City Hall will gather at the Progressive Club to pay tribute to her with cocktails at 6:30 p.m. and dinner beginning at 7:30 p.m.

"Tootie", who has remained single, first went to work for the community back in July of 1953, a time when there was only one bank in Romulus and 10 years before the first subdivision was built in Huron River Estates.

Commenting on her service in the water department under eight different administrations, she said, "The only difference in the city hall under every new mayor are the new faces and new policies and that happens every two years."

She recalls when Hyle Carmichael was mayor and offered her the opportunity of being department head, an appointive position, and turning him down.

'Before you criticize another person, look at your own faults,' she emphasized.

"I felt that I could not give up 17 years of seniority by taking the department head's job and then losing it when another administration took over. I know I made the right decision," she explained.

Today, "Tootie" said, the water department has about 6,600 customers compared with the 1,070 back in 1953 when she first started working for the city.

Although a computer today does all of the billing, she feels the sophisticated electronic marvel causes more problems than were encountered under the manual billing machine.

In addition to working on the billing machine, "Tootie" answers the telephone to explain water bills to customers and to handle a multitude of other inquiries.

As she looks back on her days with the city of Romulus, she recalls that about 7,000 persons in four precincts comprised the population of the community, compared with some 25,000 inhabitants in 19 precincts as of this year.

Active in community affairs, "Tootie" has been a Red Cross member for more than 20 years and one of its first presidents. She has

"Tootie" has never forgotten the helping hand she got from a fellow worker, Mrs. Joe Oakley, when she joined the water department. She reciprocates by doing all she can to assist new employees who come to work in the department with her.

She summed up her philosophy of life. "I always try to help people and to love people because I believe there is good in everyone."

"Before you criticize another person, look at your own faults," she emphasized.

One thing is for certain. "Tootie" will not feel lonely at her party July 25; there will be plenty of people on hand to make it an evening she will never forget.

City to update file on local industries

The city of Romulus is receiving an excellent response to a questionnaire it sent to approximately 100 businesses seeking information to update its file of industrial data for use by present and prospective new investors and industries.

Contained in a letter sent recently by Mayor William M. Oakley to city businessmen was the following:

"We currently receive daily inquiries about the products and services rendered by Romulus businesses and industries, and we believe we can better serve you and your interests if we have accurate information regarding your operation."

According to Jay Young, public information officer, 56 businesses have replied with the filled-out questionnaire.

Information collected will be available to local companies and businesses in Romulus and to those who express a desire to build or relocate in the community, Young said.

Later on, he explained, the city may include the information in a brochure that will be available to the general public.

School bus drivers listen

Day Martines, representing the National Department of Transportation, Washington, D. C., addresses the recent ninth annual Michigan School Bus Driver Safety Education Summer Workshop at Huron High School, Huron Township, attended by more than 500 school bus drivers in the area. The program, which serves as a refresher course in rules and regulations and driving instruction for new drivers, was presented in cooperation with the Wayne and

Washtenaw Intermediate School districts through the staffs of Eastern and Western Michigan universities. (Photo by Tom Greenwood, ANP staff photographer.)

Honorable mention

Keith Hall of Romulus won an honorable mention in the Pioneer category of the men and boys costume competition at Greenfield Village during the Muzzle Loaders Festival June 17 and 18, when more than 4,000 participants, many portraying Civil War soldiers, frontier families, Indians and trappers, converged for two days of "living history." American history will again become alive during the National Antique Fire Apparatus Muster (July 22 and 23), when fire-fighting buffs with more than 90 fire engines will congregate there.

PCHA, service employees reach 3-year agreement

A new three-year contract between the Peoples Community Hospital Authority (PCHA) and its Service Employees International Union (SEIU), AFL-CIO Local 79, was approved by the PCHA Board of Directors in a unanimous vote late last week.

The union ratified the contract on June 14.

The contract contains wage adjustments of six percent, retroactive to April, and a one percent increase effective the first pay period in July.

In the next two years of the contract, the wage increase will go to five percent per year.

A cost of living allowance (COLA), is included for the first time and will begin in the first quarter of 1979-80, and run through fiscal 1980-81, according to PCHA Executive Director John Freysinger. It will be based on the Detroit area average as published in the Consumers Price Index, he noted.

The SEIU's 1,200 members also negotiated improvements in the dental, eyeglass, prescription drug and retirement programs, already in place at PCHA.

Vactioning in Michigan: A memorable, unusual trip

Vacation travelers with an eye for the unusual -- that something different which makes a trip memorable -- will find it in Michigan in July. Then the uncommon becomes commonplace in the Great Lake State, according to the Travel Bureau of the Michigan Department of Commerce.

Numerous county fairs, two showboats and festivals galore make July "event-full" in Michigan.

The small communities of Chesaning and Lowell annually take you back to the "good old days of vaudeville" with their colorful showboat productions. And, this year is no exception. The Chesaning Showboat, featuring Bobby Goldsboro, will dock at Showboat Park July 10-15. Then the Lowell Showboat, starring Vic Damone, will put in at the new showboat amphitheatre July 24-29.

July also features numerous art fairs and festivals including the Portside Craft Fair in East Jordan

July 8, a Street Art Fair in Ann Arbor July 19-22 and Art on the Rocks in Marquette July 29-30.

Food is the inspiration for many a Michigan festival beginning with the Strawberry Festival in Chassell July 7-8. This is followed by the National Cherry Festival in Traverse City July 9-15, the Sauerkraut Festival in Bridgeport July 14-16, a Corn Festival in Auburn July 14-16, the National Blueberry Festival in South Haven July 20-23, Cheese Festival in Pinconning July 21-23 and a Potato Festival in Munger July 28-31.

And, if your taste is ethnic in nature, plan to attend and sample the cuisine at one or all of Detroit's Ethnic Festivals. July features the Italian Festival July 7-9, Captive Nations Festival July 14-16, Arab World Festival July 21-23 and the Afro-American Festival July 28-30. The City of Wyandotte also offers an Irish Festival July 7-9 and a Czechoslovakian Festival July 14-16.

Water-oriented sports enthusiasts can look forward to the Port Huron to Mackinac Island Yacht Races, beginning July 15, the Chicago to Mackinac Island Yacht Races, beginning July 22, Troutarama Festival in Baldwin July 27-30 and the Brown Trout Festival in Alpena July 29 through Aug. 6.

And, that just begins to scratch the surface of all there is to see and do in July, in Michigan. Get the total picture by writing for a free copy of the Michigan Calendar of Travel Events from the Travel Bureau, Michigan Department of Commerce, Box 30226, Lansing 48909. Or, if you need Michigan vacation, fishing or travel information in a hurry, call the Travel Bureau -- TOLL FREE -- at 800-292-2520 in Michigan (outside the Lansing area).

BRING EM BACK AHEAD

SAFETY TIP:

In heavy traffic, watch the brake lights of the second and third cars ahead, too. Being prepared in advance avoids panic stops and possible rear-end collisions.

(Note: "Garden and Nature Centers" is the sixth in a series of 15 weekly articles on "Offbeat Michigan." These features are designed to encourage Michigan tourism and near-home travel.)

Visitors to Michigan's garden and nature centers can see how this state evolved and glimpse wildlife such as one of the world's rarest songbirds.

A selection of 20 popular parks, gardens and wildlife areas dramatizes the diversity of such attractions in Michigan.

A two-story domed rain room featuring tropical and sub-tropical plants found in the state before the ice age is part of the Kalamazoo Nature Center's 500-acre preserve at 700 North Westnedge. Erratic boulders swept into Michigan during the glacial age also are displayed. For more information, call 616-381-1574.

Battle Creek's Leila Arboretum (616-965-5117) traces man's history from the ice age to the 20th century. The arboretum is at West Michigan and 20th streets.

The endangered Kirtland warbler nests each summer in northeast Lower Michigan and only 200 of the songbirds are left in the world. Nesting areas in the jackpine forests around Oscoda County are open for free guided tours from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. through July 23 daily except Wednesday from the ranger station four miles south of Mio (517-826-3717) and daily from the Michigan DNR field office at Grayling (517-348-6371).

A picturesque, visual link between Saginaw and its sister city in Japan can be seen at the Tokushima-Saginaw Friendship Garden at Rust Drive and Washington Street (517-776-1480). The garden was designed by a Tokushima plants expert and is a replica of a typical Japanese garden.

Nature trails for the blind are part of the Fenner Arboretum in Lansing and Hartwick Pines State Park seven miles northeast of Grayling (517-348-7068). Hartwick Pines also has a reproduction of an early logging camp. Fenner Arboretum, which has an Indian gardens, is at 2020 East Mount Hope (517-487-1425).

Swimmers can enjoy the Straits of Mackinac beach in the shadow of Fort Michilimackinac, a fully restored fort originally built by the French in 1715 and occupied by British forces 45 years later, at Michilimackinac State Park near Mackinaw City. Call 616-436-5563 for added information.

Area strawberry growers get bumper crop in 1978

Strawberry harvest now is in full swing, according to Gerald Draheim, Wayne County Extension agent. The harvest season is about a week to 10 days behind last year and most growers should reach peak production over the Fourth of July Weekend.

A late spring held blossoms back, said Draheim, but when the weather broke, growers were beyond the danger of frost and the berries set heavy and with the cool weather have sized well.

A bumper crop of strawberries is not all left up to mother nature, although she does have a lot to say about the size of the crop and the quality of the fruit. Growers must know how to control Strawberry Weevil and Clipper, Tarnished Plant Bug, and the Sap Beetle and how to suppress diseases like Leaf Blight and Leaf Spot, Blossom End Rot, Red Steeple and Black Root Rot. This requires careful ground preparation, selection of quality plants which in most cases have risen in cost to well over 100 percent the last three years and to develop a good insect and disease control program. With adequate fertilizer and soil moisture, it can all pay off in a good crop such as we have this year.

Many of the growers on this side of the state are members of the East Michigan U-Pick Growers Association and will upon request provide customers with a directory of Pick-Your-Own growers and recipes on how to make the best use of the berries harvested. Then too, says Draheim, you can check your local newspapers under "GOOD THINGS TO EAT" section for additional information on Pick-Your-Own farms or request the Michigan Department of Agriculture's brochure "Country Carousels" that lists all kinds of Pick-Your-Own fruit and vegetable farms in all of the Michigan's eighty one counties.

Local Chamber of Commerce offices and the local Cooperative Extension Service office can also provide you with the names of Pick-Your-Own farms in your immediate area Draheim said.

GI Bill scholars should plan ahead

Veterans planning to enroll in college or other training this fall with GI Bill benefits are urged to make their plans early.

Enrollment for an initial term requires acceptance from the school, Frank Kilcullen, director of the VA regional office in Detroit, reminded prospective students.

Veterans have 10 years from their date of discharge to use their GI Bill educational benefits, and with the average age of veterans of the Vietnam Era nearing 33, many will find they have only a few years left to use their benefits, Kilcullen said.

Another advantage of making plans far enough in advance is that the veteran has time to complete the necessary papers with the Veterans Administration, assuring that the first GI Bill check will arrive at the end of the first month of training.

Acceptance by the school, with certification to the VA, is part of the enrollment process. A course of study must be approved by the VA before benefits are paid.

Information, counseling and assistance for all eligible veterans is available from the regional office of the VA, or from any of the state's veteran service organizations.

Tahquamenon Falls near Newberry can be viewed via the Toonerville Trolley and boat ride (906-876-2311) to the rapids above the 40-foot falls. The 6½-hour trip leaves from nearby Soo Junction at 10 a.m. and 12 noon Monday through Friday and at 10:30 a.m. weekends through Aug. 31.

Outdoor enthusiasts will find four campgrounds plus hiking trails, canoeing and horseback riding at the Allegan State Game Area near Allegan (616-673-2430).

Millions are turning to chiropractic because they are recognizing the scientific principles of nature that have made spinal adjustments effective for many conditions where other methods have failed. The chart below shows the lateral view of the spinal column and indicates in section "A" names of the spinal nerves as they branch from the spinal cord and exit through openings between the vertebrae. All tissues, glands and organs supplied with life energy by these nerves are shown in the section marked "B" in the chart. The section marked "C" describes a partial list of the conditions and symptoms that can result when there is an absence of life in the nerves.

Belleville hooks visiting fishermen

Over the past years, Belleville has experienced a mini-boom each summer spurred by its lake and associated summer activities. But, for some time, the lake has created problems which have been left unattended.
On almost any evening, the visitor to Belleville will witness lines of people along the shore of the lake testing their skills against the local fish. But more than likely, the fisherman will get caught, not the fish.
The problem lies in the fact that there is little space for all those fishermen to park their cars.
And now, with last week's action by the Belleville City Council, and the Van Buren Board of Trustees, the cost of fishing may even be going higher.
In an attempt to resolve the continuing parking problems experienced by the fishermen, and their disregard for local residents' private property, city fathers have made the decision to completely ban fishing in posted areas along the shore of the lake near Belleville Road and Belleville Bridge.
The city's decision follows in the wake of more than 200 citations issued this year for illegally parked autos across the bridge by Van Buren Township police, with no apparent let-up in sight.

We think it is unfortunate that the city of Belleville has taken this approach to the problem.
Since the lake is a vital source of summer revenue for local merchants, and an attraction for many visitors, it would have been more appropriate for the officials of the area to attempt to provide the necessary parking for visiting fishermen.
If the communities willingly accept the benefits associated with their proximity to the lake, they must then accept the disadvantages as well.
We realize that it is much simpler to suggest a solution than it is to implement it, but in this case, we would suggest that the local officials of both communities should get together and try to come up with the necessary funds to procure and create a parking area which visitors to the lake could utilize.
A good adjunct to that idea would be for the city of Belleville to build a municipal boat launching site for use by visiting fishermen.
But, in the meantime, if you plan on fishing in Belleville Lake, find a legal fishing area and a legal parking spot, or the trip may just cost you more than you had expected.

How to:

Get it in the paper

How does one go about getting a news item published in the paper? A common question asked by hundreds of individuals and groups throughout the community.
Because the question has been asked so frequently in the past, and will probably be asked again in the future, Associated Newspapers is devoting this space to a detailed explanation of how to improve the chances that your story will make the pages of your newspaper.
A community group or civic organization should suggest that their group give one person the responsibility of dealing with the paper. That person should come into the office and discuss with the news editor, the paper's deadline for news items in your community, the type of photographs suitable for inclusion in the paper, and the identifying information for photographs.
In addition, the person delegated the responsibility for working with the paper should make an attempt to gain an understanding of procedures employed by the newspaper.
An individual who wishes to place an item in the paper should also contact the news editor for deadlines and the proper procedures for preparing news material and photos for submission.
In general, any item submitted to your paper will have a better chance of getting in if a few simple guidelines are followed.
Always type submitted material, if possible. It is time-consuming and costly for the newspaper to type material that is submitted in hand-written form. Further, some people write illegibly and it is almost impossible to read their information.
Again, if material is typed, it should be triple spaced. This will allow the editor to correct spelling and grammatical errors. Single-spaced letters do not provide any space for those corrections.

If the material is submitted hand-written, it should also be triple-spaced on lined paper, and the material should be printed rather than written.
Photographs which accompany any news item submitted to the paper should be black and white, no smaller than two inches square or larger than 8 by 10 inches. All photographs should have the name of the subjects printed on the back, and also the name of the person they are to be returned to.
Color photographs sometimes can be used, but may be rejected by the photo editor, if he believes they will not reproduce properly.
If a photograph is necessary to properly support the news item sent in, a call well in advance of the activity should be made to request that a photographer be assigned.
While it is impossible for the paper to assign a photographer to all the requested events, we will make every effort to cover events of a broad general interest.
These few simple guidelines will considerably improve the chances of a submitted story making it into the paper.
While we are dedicated to serving the community, it only stands to reason that articles properly prepared will be handled the fastest, and there are times when we will have no one available for handling those articles that may require special treatment.
Never request that your news item be taken over the phone. This practice leads to errors and if the article is worth printing, it is worth printing correctly.
Clip this article from the paper and keep it handy for those times when you might wish to submit an article to the paper.
By following these guidelines, you will make our job easier and your article better.
We are standing by waiting to hear from you.

Lobby reform progress

The Majority Leader
State Senator William Faust
13th District

On Tuesday, June 13, the Michigan Senate gave its approval to the controversial lobby reform bill and in the process opened further the door of scrutiny to the legislative process. The bill now goes to the House where favorable action is anticipated.
Crucial to the content of the bill is that it continues to hold sacred the right of an individual or group to engage in the honorable profession of lobbying. Appropriately, the focus is on disclosure, not restriction, of lobbying activities. The public will be afforded the opportunity to decide for themselves who is attempting to influence a member of the executive or legislative branch of Michigan government.
It goes without saying that lobbying is a powerful activity in Lansing. Currently, nearly 500 lobbyists are registered with the only disclosure requirements being the names of lobbyists and their organizations. The public has no way of knowing what a lobbyist does or how much they spend in affecting the outcome of administrative or legislative action. This bill significantly alters those requirements.
The measure approved by the Senate would:
...require those individuals who spend $1,000 or more during a year in influencing legislative or administrative action to register as lobbyists with the Secretary of State's Office.
...require lobbyists to file quarterly reports detailing their lobbying activities and expenses incurred while lobbying.
...require separate itemization of food and beverage expenditures if those expenses exceed $15 in one month or $50 a year on a single public official.
...require lobbyists to disclose transactions exceeding $500 between the lobbyist and a public official, a member of that official's immediate family or a business with which the public official is associated.
Certain restrictive measures were also included in the bill. Namely, lobbyists would be prohibited from loaning money to public officials unless that loan was in the normal course of business. The bill would also prevent the granting of preferential interest rates solely on the basis of the loan recipient being a public official. Further, lobbyists would be prevented from giving a gift to the public official, or that public official's immediate family, valued at more than $25.
The Secretary of State would be required not only to publish quarterly summaries of lobbyist reports but also to make periodic audits of the lobbyist reports to insure accuracy. In order to prevent harassment of any particular lobbyist the selection procedure for those to be audited would be based on a scientific random sample and no lobbyist could be audited more than once a year.

One final point should be made. Press reports and floor debate might very well have left the mistaken impression that all lobbyists are cutting back room deals and their activities are characterized by a consistent lack of integrity. Nothing could be further from the truth.
The majority of lobbyists are hard-working, honest, articulate representatives of reputable organizations. Their input into the legislative process is invaluable as they frequently present needed data concerning a particular bill or issue. The lobbying bill, I'm convinced, will reinforce that notion.
During the past two years the Michigan Legislature has passed political reform legislation, open meetings acts and now the lobbying bill. These measures are designed to open the legislative process up to the scrutiny of the entire citizenry of Michigan...and this is how it should be.

Health Beat

First impressions usually wrong

By RUSS TUTTLE
Director, Community Relations
Peoples Community Hospital Authority

He was a young Air Force lieutenant riding a train between Tachikawa and Tokyo, Japan; it was April 1953.
Like most of the trains which made the 40-mile trip between those two Japanese cities, it was crowded and people were standing and holding onto the leather straps which hung from the roof of the cars.
He reached into his insided uniform pocket and managed to get out a cigarette—it was Camels he smoked in those days. The cigarette was placed in his mouth, and he began to feel in his pockets for his lighter while doing his best to remain upright on the rickety train as it raced past the snow-covered countryside.
From out of nowhere, it seemed, a hand appeared under his cigarette. In the hand was a Japanese-style Zippo cigarette lighter which was promptly fired up to support the lieutenant's habit.
He looked down and saw a Japanese civilian, possibly age 50, with an abundance of gold teeth which were accentuated by an enormous grin.
In Japanese he thanked his benefactor. There was an awkward moment and then the civilian began a conversation.
The lieutenant's Japanese was limited to what he had learned in an Air Force cram course just prior to being sent to the Far East and it soon became obvious that there would be a one-sided conversation unless English was used.
The civilian recognized the problem and switched to a fairly decent English.
"Where you from?"
"Detroit," was the curt reply.
"Ah so, I been Detroit many years ago." I bet you were, he thought. I bet you were one of those Japanese businessmen who toured Detroit's auto factories to learn the methods of mass production just prior to World War II.
The lieutenant had been conditioned to distrust and almost to despise anyone oriental. You come to our country, learned how to produce weaponry, and then took our own technology to us at Pearl Harbor, and Guam, and Bataan, and Iwo Jima. Yeah you little (unprintable), I'm sure you know Detroit all right.
"Where you go, lieutenant?"
"Tokyo. I want to see the Emperor's Palace and some of the Ginza downtown."
"You have hotel?"
"Naw, but I think I'll try to get a room in the Imperial."
"You come my house and be my guest, yes?"
Well, why not. God knows these people owe me something. I can free load for a couple of days. Those were the only thoughts that went through the lieutenant's mind. Besides, he'd never been inside a Japanese house, and most likely would never again have the chance.
"O.K., I accept your offer."
They arrived in Tokyo Station and walked to the civilian's home.
It was a small home, but it still boasted a Japanese garden. And it was clean. The lieutenant was soon to learn that if the Japanese had limited water rations, they would clean their homes and themselves before they would drink the water.
They sat down in what would be considered the living room. But it was sure different than any living room the lieutenant had ever seen.

There was a large hole in the middle of the floor, and perhaps three feet down into the hole a fire was smoldering.
You sat on the edge of the hole with your legs dangling down. A blanket was placed on your lap, and in no time you were as snug as could be.
From behind a sliding door, the civilian's wife appeared. She was carrying a pot of hot saki — a Japanese rice wine which richly deserves its reputation for potency.
As the saki flowed, the lieutenant began to mellow. The conversation centered about America: religion, politics, labor unions, history, food, housing, recreation. Indeed, in three hours the two men covered the American scene as perhaps it has never been covered before under such circumstances.
And the lieutenant thought. I begrudgingly called him a despicable name, thought he owed me something, and in general have been a rotten person. Why?
The answer is painfully obvious. The lieutenant behaved as too often some people behave when they face some one or something about whom or which they know very little.
Our conditioning reacts in knee-jerk reactions to certain stimuli, and that's no good. Before final judgments are made, maybe we all ought to think about exercising that gray mass called the brain.
It certainly couldn't hurt, could it!

'Great Rip-offs by the U.S. Postal Service'

To the Editor:
Will there be no end to the bureaucratic insults handed down from the U.S. Postal Service?
I refer to Postmaster Stottlemeyer's letter to you in last week's Wayne Eagle in which he apologized for the long lines at the Post Office the previous week.
What Mr. Stottlemeyer didn't mention was the fact that those long lines were caused as a result of the U.S. Postal Service getting into the welfare business more and the postal business less. He well knows that most of the people in those lines were there to buy food stamps, not postage stamps.
Were Mr. Stottlemeyer not so busy trying to "sell" another "rip-off" from the U.S. Postal Service called "stamps by mail," he might have time to come up with more practical solutions to the problems of long lines at the Post Office.
For example, why not have a separate line and a single window at the counter for food stamp customers, leaving other windows and clerks free to transact regular post office business?
Why do I call Stamps by Mail a rip off? Mainly because they attach a 40-cent service charge to it, and that's pure profit for the U.S. Postal Service!
When you send in your order for stamps, presumably you send a check or money order to cover the cost of the stamps you are ordering plus your 40-cent service charge. Once your order arrives at the Post Office, the cost of processing that stamp order can't be any greater than it costs now to buy those same stamps over the counter.

As far as delivering those stamps to the customer is concerned, it should be a simple matter to include delivery of those stamps in with the regular mail delivery to the customer.
Outside of an envelope to deliver the stamps, I fail to see any extra expense incurred by the Post Office. I would suspect there are even good savings for the Post Office if we buy our stamps by mail. There simply is no justification for a 40-cent service charge! That's why I believe the program is a "rip-off."
If you want another example of a "rip off" by the U.S. Postal Service, wait, Mr. Editor, until you get the bill for your newspaper's Post Office box. You will not believe the increase in charges.
A box that cost $25.00 a year to rent a year ago has now increased by sixty percent, to $40.00 per year.
How an agency of the Federal Government can justify a sixty percent increase in charges while the President of the United States asks business to help fight inflation by holding down prices can only boggle the mind!

Again, such an increase in price can be nothing but another U.S. Postal Service "rip off" because those individuals and businesses who rent post office boxes are helping the Post Office to save money. After all, mail that is placed in a post office box does not have to be delivered by a carrier, and that has to result in savings to the Post Office. What would happen if all those postal patrons who use boxes at the Post Office and pick up their own mail, suddenly decided they wanted their mail delivered?
The increased volume of mail to deliver would have to cost the Post Office more money.
Obviously most holders of post office boxes aren't renting them to save the Post Office money. There are many reasons for using a Post Office box and fair and reasonable increases would be acceptable. But a sixty percent increase?.....
Come on, Mr. Postmaster, take that increase, place it in the same file with the "stamps by mail" program and file it all under "Great Rip-offs by the U.S. Postal Service!"

From Romulus City Hall

Budget reflections

WILLIAM M. OAKLEY
Mayor, City of Romulus

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly commend the Romulus City Council for their timely sense of duty and civic responsibility in passing the 1978 city budget prior to the end of the fiscal year.

The city budget is probably the single most important document a city council is called upon to pass in any given year.

The budgeting process provides city administrators with yearly opportunity for setting goals, for policy development, for planning of capital improvements and for an evaluation of the operation of all city functions and levels of service provided to residents.

As each new city budget is presented, it is a challenge to start anew and an opportunity to improve the municipality's programs for the good of the entire community.

The task can at times be perplexing and often frustrating given such factors as inflation, limited resources and demands for improved and expanded services.

The budget process is also a communication process. Communication from the mayor to the city council, which translates to communication from various departments through the mayor to council and on to citizens. The circle is completed when citizens react to programs and services by informing officials when expectations are reached or fall short.

This year's budget reflects our desire to hold the line on spending while maintaining the level of services citizens have a right to expect.

We have had to absorb a half million dollar operational increase to defray the cost of increased union wages, police services, utilities and insurances. At the same time, we have eliminated the one per cent collection fee and reduced the millage assessed for debt retirement from three mills to 2.2 mills.

Those organizational changes suggested by council, will, I believe, serve to enhance efficiency and improve services to residents.

Again, my congratulations to the council for their knowledge, input and foresight. It is my desire that we can continue to work together for the betterment of the city. The passage of the budget at this time bodes well for the future.

If citizens have any questions about the budget, contact city hall and we will be happy to answer all questions.

Tisch provides the club, you provide the muscle

Associated Newspapers is proud to provide its readers with the first and best coverage of local news which could affect family life in Western Wayne County.

To that end, we have led the campaign to keep the local property taxpayer informed of the many current proposals, which if supported by the voters, would limit or reduce state and local taxes.

While many in the news media have taken a hands off approach to this subject, we feel that it is absolutely vital to the best interest of the citizens we serve, that they be informed on the issues of tax reform and tax cut-backs and how those proposals might affect them.

Because so many of our readers have expressed a growing dissatisfaction with current tax levels, and since we have received many requests for information regarding how they might get involved in the move to fight taxes, Associated has provided the following petition.

For the benefit of any citizen who feels Michigan's property tax burden is too large, we have provided the Initiative Petition below.

Similar to the California Proposal 13, the Tisch amendment which voters will have the opportunity of voting on in November — should 266,000 valid signatures be collected — would reduce property taxes immediately by about 50-percent, limit the total state income tax to 5.6 percent, and would prohibit the state from mandating any new local programs without funding those programs.

Any registered voter is eligible to circulate the Initiative Petition, but each petition must be circulated only within one county.

Tax reform is now within your grasp. The rest is up to you.

In buying a mobile home

Consider more than price and interior

BY LINDA JOY
Executive Director
Michigan Consumers Council

The problem of finding an affordable place to live makes many consumers think about buying a mobile home. While a mobile home may be relatively inexpensive, there are many things to consider besides the price before deciding to purchase one.

Shop around for a reputable dealer. This is more important than in most purchases, because the dealer along with the manufacturer usually is responsible for the warranty work on the mobile home. To see if a dealership has any complaints filed against it, check with the Michigan Mobile Home Commission by calling (517) 374-9586 or writing 6546 Merchandise Way, P.O. Box 30222, Lansing 48909. The commission licenses mobile home dealers and can tell you how long they have been in business.

When looking at a mobile home, examine it carefully. Look for evidence of sound construction, such as carefully fitted paneling and carpeting. Don't be distracted by a fancy interior. You may want to ask the dealer for some names of former customers who own the model you're interested in buying so you can talk to them about how they like the mobile home and what problems they've encountered with it.

Remember to compare warranties as you shop. Since this will be your home, you'll want a comprehensive warranty to cover anything which goes wrong. Make sure there are warranties from the manufacturer to go with the appliances in the mobile home. This includes ranges, refrigerators and other small electrical appliances. Check which year the appliances were manufactured and how long the mobile home has been stored. Remember, only a mobile home which has been manufactured in 1978 can be advertised as a new mobile home.

Shop around for financing and insurance. The dealer may offer to arrange to finance and to insure the mobile home, but compare prices with insurance companies and financial institutions.

While you shop, you should also think about where to locate the mobile home. If you plan to locate it on your own property, be sure to ask local zoning officials if it's legal. Check to see if utility hook-ups can be provided and if there are related charges.

Mobile home parks are the most common sites for mobile homes. Rent for a space in one can vary from $60 to $125 a month. It's important to check what services are included with the rent. Some parks provide clubhouses, pools and tennis courts as well as services like snow removal. Other parks may provide little more than a space to park a mobile home.

Carefully consider the rules of the park regarding such things as pets, landscaping, guests and storage of large items outside the mobile home. Ask tenants who live in the park how they like it and how the management handles problems. Make sure you can live comfortably in the arrangement of the park. You might not be happy if the mobile homes are very close to each other.

Check also to see if the park provides individual meters for utilities; this assures you pay only for your fair share of electricity, water and fuel.

Extras add up quickly once you've selected a mobile park site and purchased a mobile home. These may include such items as insurance, transportation costs from the dealership to the park and accessories required by the mobile home park.

Like any other large purchase, remember it's important to shop carefully. This means pay close attention to the dealer, the mobile home itself, financing and insurance, and a place to locate the mobile home.

In addition to these items, consumers should be aware of the controversy among builders of conventional homes and mobile home manufacturers about the safety of mobile homes. Many feel the building requirements for conventional homes are much stricter and therefore safer than the ones for mobile homes. Others say these standards are too costly and have driven many people out of the housing market.

Baby tears thrive on north, east light

A bathroom or kitchen window with a northern or eastern exposure is just what the plant doctor ordered for baby tears (Helixine solierolii).

According to Michigan State University horticulturists, this creeping, trailing plant with its masses of tiny, light green leaves makes an excellent hanging specimen in a location with humid air, diffused light and moderate temperatures (70 degrees during the day, 50-55 degrees at night).

Pot baby tears in a rich, humusy houseplant soil with provisions for good drainage. A half-and-half mixture of peat moss and prepared houseplant soil is good.

Water whenever the soil surface begins to dry out to keep the soil around the roots moist, but not soaking wet, at all times. Be careful not to overwater — the plant is susceptible to root rot.

Underwatering, especially if the air around the plant is too dry, will result in the plant's drying up. Fertilize with a standard houseplant fertilizer every two months.

Because of its preference for humid air, the fast growing baby tears makes a good creeping ground cover for terrariums. It has no major plant pests.

Baby tears branches freely and roots wherever stems touch soil. Propagation is by division or planting rooted stem segments.

Why have a wake? HAROLD REDISKE JR. The word, wake, literally means to "watch a corpse," according to Elaine Landau in her book, "Death: Everyone's Heritage."

The actual watching occurred, in olden times, from the moment of death until burial. It was traditional and probably practical. In those early times without benefit of our modern medicine, could it not also have been to reassure the family that their loved one was, in fact, dead and not merely in a comatose state?

The practice of conducting a wake is not uncommon and takes many forms. The Irish wake is famous in that it is an occasion for family and friends of the deceased to gather together, eat, drink, and have a "joyful" time. In this way, the deceased is honored and viewed in a peaceful atmosphere of friendship, love, and camaraderie — as "he would have wanted." The practice is also an acknowledged form of grief therapy for survivors.

Members of the Kawaiko Church of Hawaii put on a lavish luau following the burial of a church member. Festivities are designed to ease the grief of the bereaved and to say "goodbye" to their member in a happy setting.

We respect the customs of whatever religion or ethnic group is being served for wake or visitation. If you have any questions on these customs, please phone or stop by.

Rex needs green

The colorful foliage of the rex begonia (Begonia rex) is particularly striking when it's displayed against a backdrop of green plants. The casual plant hobbyist may find it a difficult plant to grow, however.

Michigan State University horticulturists suggest that the rex begonia be treated as a holiday pot plant. Enjoy it for the one to three months you can expect it to survive, then discard it when it begins to decline, they advise.

The appeal of the rex begonia is its brightly colored, lopsided heartshaped leaves marked with bands and splotches of maroon, lavender, red, pink, green, silver and gray.

Pot in a rich, humusy soil made of equal parts peat and houseplant potting soil. Because the rex begonia has a shallow root system, a shallow container is recommended.

Water whenever the soil surface begins to dry; keep the soil around the roots moist but not dripping wet at all times. Avoid over-watering, which leads to crown rot. Fertilize every month with any standard houseplant fertilizer at half-strength.

The rex begonia requires high humidity to thrive. This usually is the limiting factor in the home. Misting is not the answer — the leaves will not tolerate water standing on them.

Place the plant where it will get bright, indirect light from a sunny window. Do not expose it to direct sun. The rex begonia also is good under partial or total artificial light.

Warm temperatures — 80-85 degrees during the day and a night minimum of 62-65 degrees — are best.

Possible pests of the rex begonia include mealybugs and white flies.

Propagation is by leaf cuttings and segments, division or seeds.

Of Petitpren conflict

W-W ed board will air pros and cons

By MAUREEN CAMPS
ANP Staff Writer

Conflict of interest charges, and the defense against them, will be aired at a July 10 public hearing scheduled by the Wayne-Westland school board for one of its members, Dr. Vincent J. Petitpren.

At that time, Petitpren will try and show why his two positions, as elected school board trustee and as appointed superintendent of Taylor Schools, do not pose a conflict of interest.

The hearing was called at the request of Wayne-Westland board trustee Frederick Warmbier, two weeks after the school board received an attorney general's opinion calling Petitpren's two positions "incompatible."

Warmbier originally asked for the attorney general's opinion in February, after Petitpren took the job of superintendent in Taylor.

At a Board of Education meeting Monday night, Warmbier asked Petitpren if he would resign his seat on the school board, saying that "Dr. Petitpren's continued presence as a school board member exposes the board to possible liability," if the board doesn't take action to resolve the problem.

"As he has refused to resign or take responsible action to remove the incompatibility and/or eliminate the liability exposure, his inaction constitutes a willful act of misfeasance and/or non-feasance in office."

Warmbier stressed that he has no personal grudge against Petitpren, but wants to make sure the entire board is not jeopardized by doing nothing to react to the attorney general's opinion.

Petitpren is taking steps to challenge the opinion of Attorney General Frank Kelley that concluded that "the offices of member of the board of education of a local school district and of superintendent of schools of a different local school district are incompatible."

He has asked for a hearing before the Opinion Review Board, which has authority to revise or change attorney general's opinions. He has also asked the attorney general for a second opinion, this time specifically on his case, and not on a general question.

Petitpren also maintained that the opinion did not really answer the original question and ignored the issue of conflict by calling the positions "incompatible." He said the opinion did not even mention the fact that the two districts have a common lobbying group, and did not take into account that the superintendent job is appointive.

However, a spokesman for the attorney general's office yesterday said that as far as they're concerned, the opinion already written does answer the question of the specific case. However, he said, the Opinion Review Board can always change the opinion once the specific facts are known. Petitpren will present details of his case, outlining how he believes that his two positions in fact complement each other because the two districts are so similar.

Petitpren has also asked a second question in his request for an attorney general's opinion, one that elaborates on his contention that if "potential for conflict" is a consideration as the attorney general said, then many office holders would be affected.

His second question is: "May the same person serve as a regent of Eastern Michigan University and as superintendent of the Wayne-Westland Community Schools?"

The question refers to Wayne-Westland Supt. Timothy Dyer, who is an EMU regent.

If you want to talk about conflict, Petitpren said, then examples such as Dyer would have to be studied, too. Dyer, as a representative of higher education, competes with local school districts for education dollars, and that would pose a conflict, Petitpren maintained.

Is there rail station in Wayne's future?

There may be a SEMTA and AMTRAK rail station in Wayne's future.

A recent study made by William Kessler and Associates Inc., and presented to Council by Edward Francis, offered possible recommendations for a Conrail and warehouse site on lands located in the south end.

The Council had commissioned the architectural firm to do a study of the area located south of Michigan Ave. East, down to the railroad tracks, from the site of the new Kroger Store on the West (Williams Street), and toward the east to Third Street.

Francis informed the Council that the area "has definite potential for continuous growth, but that the particular area we were commissioned to study is threatened because of the negative influences of time — it is an older section of the city and it has aged."

"In fact some of these homes were built during the first half of the 19th century and could be designated as historical sites," Francis said.

Francis pinpointed sites for the SEMTA stations — one south of railroad, the other north and said that the northerly site would avoid railroad tieups. He said that SEMTA would not have these stations operable until 1981.

Francis' study for a warehouse site concluded that the area around Brush Street and Wayne Rd. would support such a structure.

There is speculation that a lumber company wants land to build the warehouse.

Though the study was requested at the request of council, it is just that — a study — of what the possibilities and alternatives are for the revitalization of that land.

Councilman Milton Mack Jr. was equally interested in preserving the historic aspects of the area. He asked the administration: "Do we actually have a policy for preserving and developing our historical sites?"

City manager Patrick Cullen replied: "I really don't know if we have any objectives as yet; we have been more concerned about the development of the downtown business community."

Mack urged the administration to contact the Michigan Historic Society to see what it could offer in the way of help and suggestions to preserve the city's history.

Mayor Paul Lada later said that the SEMTA and AMTRAK stations were keys to the city's future development.

"We are hopeful that both an AMTRAK railroad station and a SEMTA park-and-ride facility will be established in Wayne."

"These would act as catalysts in the revitalization of our central business district and give the city of Wayne prime identity in Western Wayne County," Mayor Lada continued. "People would be drawn into the city to use the facilities and it would be tremendously advantageous."

Country living: Is it for you?

You...you and your family...living in the country. Fresh air to breathe...room for a garden...lots of space for the kids to play, your own trout stream or lake at your front door...a return after long years to the "simple" life of country living.

For years, people—young people in particular, moved away from farms and small towns. Because the city was the only place where they could get work, they set aside their love of the woods, of wading and catching fish in a brook for that job in the city.

In the mid-60s the direction of movement began to change. People started leaving the cities to escape the urban environment and its many problems. Pleasant memories of country life became more important they were reinforced by anxieties and routines of everyday life. Even those who had never worked or lived in the country began to feel the urge to move.

Today, more than ever, the urge to pack up the family and move out to the country is overwhelming. It all sounds so good. But it isn't all that simple.

Many of you reading this might already be planning or even considering this heavenly exploit, but there are facts you need to know.

Facts...you need to consider. Facts that may change your mind.

There is a booklet out that has pertinent information you should know before making that costly move to the country. Michigan State University in conjunction with the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service, has prepared a 40-page color brochure entitled "Getting into Country Living." It discusses country living, its growth, the unforeseen expenses, the problems associated with job commuting and living away from the big city. It also delves into property values, taxes, the availability of medical care, schools, water supply and much more.

It's everything in a nutshell you should know before making the great move. "Getting into Country Living", is free, if you'd like to pick your copy up. The office is located at 5455 Wayne Road, Wayne. Or we will mail you a copy for $1 to cover postage and handling costs. Make sure your decision is a wise one. Pick up "Getting into Country Living" before they're all gone.

For more information contact the Wayne County Cooperative Extension Service.

EMU's Aurora yearbook gets alterations

ANITA YEAROUT

High school yearbooks are fun. They are a giant record of what you and your friends did for a year. What made them special was the fact that you knew almost everyone in it, if not by name, then at least by face.

College yearbooks, on the other hand, are much different. About the only people you recognize are yourself and a couple of professors. Next year at Eastern Michigan University, Anita Yearout plans on changing all that.

Ms. Yearout, 24, of Sheldon Road, Canton Township, a junior biology major, has been selected as the new editor of the "Aurora," the EMU yearbook. She has recognized the weaknesses of past yearbooks, taken note of those which have succeeded, and intends to turn the declining interest in yearbooks trend around.

One of the first and most important items to be taken care of is to make the yearbook record individuals, not groups.

"Michigan State University just won a national award for best yearbook. Their approach was to make it a photojournalistic record of people who attend Michigan State," Ms. Yearout explained. "Rather than focus on groups using the traditional mug shot, they took a closer look at the individuals. It worked. And that is exactly what we are going to do next year."

Ms. Yearout's concept of what she calls a "quality product" also calls for a lot of work. She is eager to begin.

Aside from making the 1979 "Aurora" more personal, she will bring in the people and organizations which make Eastern an important school.

"Yearbooks are difficult to make appealing to everyone, but we can cover most of the students and organizations by using Michigan State's technique." To this end, Ms. Yearout will utilize students from the EMU Art Department, both photographers and graphic artists. Another aspect she intends to focus on is sales. She plans to include a promotions manager on her staff.

"Last year, we sold around 700 yearbooks," she stated. "This next year, we want to double that. We will have one person full-time promoting the book, as well as other means of advertising."

Senior pictures will be promoted more then they have in the past and for the first time, graduate students will be included. Finally, she intends to get more support from the community through advertising and include it as part of the book. The entire push is to make the "Aurora" a better yearbook.

Ms. Yearout's expertise at this sort of thing began at John Glenn High School in Wayne. She was the yearbook editor there, too. Last year at Eastern, she served as the administration editor for the "Aurora" and got her first exposure to college productions. It is her combined experience of both jobs that enables her to make the important decisions about the next yearbook.

It will be a year before the success of Ms. Yearout's ideas and talents can be measured. When the year is over, and the new editor begins yet another book, the 1979 "Aurora" will join a long list of yearbooks which stretch back into the 1800s. It will then become a part of a tradition, a record of time for all to remember.

Phantom will visit Ypsilanti

The highly touted Phantom Regiment of Rockford, Ill., will provide tough competition for 20 drum and bugle corps from throughout the United States and Canada that plan to compete in the Drum Corps International (DCI) Northern Championship to be held in Ypsilanti on Aug. 3.

The elite musical group is the defending champion of the northern regional event and finished second in national competition last year in Denver, Colo.

This year the corps has one thing in mind — to win the DCI national crown.

The Phantom Regiment's 1978 show is exciting and boasts a repertoire that includes all classical music. However, classical music buffs expecting to hear an orchestra rendition of Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony" or a "Piano Concerto in A Minor" will take on an entirely new appreciation for classical music when they hear the Rhamtom Regiment perform.

This year the corps boasts a repertoire that includes a medley of selections by Igor Stravinsky. "Firebird Suite," "Rite of Spring," "Petrouchka," "Dance Infernale," "Scherzo a la Russe," "Piano Concerto in A Minor," "Hall of the Mountain King" and "Flight of the Bumblebee" (a drum solo) comprise the regiment's 1978 repertoire. The corps also performs Beethoven's "Ninth Symphony."

"As little as five years ago, the music we were playing this year would have left people sitting on their hands," Jim Wren, musical director for the corps said. "Drum corps audiences are becoming so advanced musically they can appreciate the difficult arrangements of Stravinsky's music."

One of the best color guards in drum corps competition complements the Phantom Regiment's musical performance. During competition last winter the Regiment's color guard won 222 consecutive contests and finished second once. The 32-member color guard is famous for its "Rockford File" and also is highlighted in a new number from the ballet "Petrouska."

Drum majors Steve Young and Brad Grubb lead the 1978 corps into competition. The 128 member Regiment includes a 60 member bugle line, a 30 member percussion line, a 32 member color guard, a two-man "American squad," two drum majors and one color guard captain.

The Phantom Regiment was founded in 1956 and reestablished in 1969 after disbanding in 1965. The corps won its first national title, the U.S. Open at Marion, Ohio, in 1976. Last year the corps finished second in DCI national competition, first in Northern regional competition, won the mid-west DCI championship and the eastern DCI regional in Allentown, Pa.

The Phantom Regiment will compete against more than 20 corps in the DCI northern regional to be held at Eastern Michigan University's Rynearson Stadium on Aug. 3. The Ypsilanti competition will be hosted by the Golden Garrison, a recently organized corps that will not take part in the formal competition, but will perform in a special exhibition.

Ticket prices for the competition are $3 for the preliminaries (on sale at the gate only) and $4, $5 and $6 for the finals of the competition. All seats are located on the concert side of the stadium.

For further information on the competition or for ticket information, call (313) 482-4920.

Legislation will streamline Michigan's energy agency

Legislation establishing a streamlined state energy agency has been approved by the House, according to State Rep. Edward Mahalak (D-38th District).

The bill sets up an independent energy agency to handle energy conservation and development programs at the state level, and serve as Michigan's official link with federal Department of Energy, the Romulus Democrat explained.

The Energy Agency has several major advantages over the department structure which has been advocated by the Governor," he said, adding: "It separates the regulatory function, leaving untouched the Public Service Commission; it is less expensive because of lower staffing requirements; and much of the red tape a department would create is avoided."

The agency would originally be set up for a maximum of two years. After that, the governor and legislature would evaluate the need to continue the agency.

The agency would develop energy conservation programs for residential, commercial, agricultural and governmental users. It also would administer federally funded conservation programs, he added.

In addition, the bureau would set up an emergency energy allocation plan to specify actions to be taken in case of severe energy shortage. The agency would cost an estimated $1.1 million a year in state funds and an equal amount in federal money.

It would be headed by a director chosen by the governor with the agreement of the Senate. The director could not have worked for a utility or other energy-related firm for two years before appointment.

The bill is part of a six-bill energy package which would:

— Provide appropriations for the Energy Agency, including a $10 million state energy research, development and demonstration fund, to be introduced soon.

— Create a three-year, $40 million program for weatherization of low income housing, which has passed House.

— Establish home insulation standards (to be introduced soon).

— Provide tax credits to assist low and moderate income families with utility bills (passed House).

— Provide tax credits for the purchase and installation of solar energy devices (passed House).

Garden Doctor says...

This week the Garden Doctor talks about:

Q: Now that asparagus season is over, what should I do to assure a good crop next year?

A: Fertilize the planting with three cups of 12-12-12 for every 50 feet of row. Allow the ferns to grow naturally during the remainder of the growing season. Fertilize again next spring before new growth begins.

Q: Carpenter ants are working in our shade tree. How can we stop them?

A: Carpenter ants put their nest in dead decaying wood. They do not kill live tissue. Remove dead branches from the tree. If they are tunneling into the trunk, of course, you cannot easily cut out the dead wood. You can, however, spray the decaying wood where the ants are working with Diazinon. This controls the ants but will not reverse the wood decay.

Q: Clover seems to be taking over our lawn. What can we do?

A: Clover can be controlled with Silvex. Silvex often is the main ingredient in products marketed as clover or chickweed killers. Silvex is best used either during May or September. Repeated applications often are necessary. Avoid using Silvex when temperatures are above 70 degrees.

Q: My Friend was saying there is a special spray we need for our backyard apple trees starting July 1. What is this?

A: Around July 1 egg laying begins for the apple maggot flies. These flies lay eggs on the skin of the young apples. The egg hatches and the larva eats its way into the fruit. By harvest time the worm is gone, but pits remain on the apple surface and brown trails through the fruit are evident. This is a serious pest on homegrown apples, so starting July 1 Diazinon or Imidan should be part of the regular spray formulation.

After short illness

Well-known organist, Mrs. Scott, dies

By JIM BRADLEY
ANP Staff Writer

Janice Austin Scott has played her last organ solo.

But her music lives on in the hearts and lives of those she taught for more than 50 years.

Mrs. Scott, who played the organ for Uht and Lents Funeral homes for about 15 years, took suddenly ill and passed away June 1 at the age of 77. She will be long remembered by her hundreds of piano and organ students in the Wayne-Westland area who learned music from her for more than half a century.

Mrs. Scott's father, William, was brother to the owner of the J. Austin Oil Company, well-known in Wayne by many oldtimers of the area.

"She was such a wonderful partner for more than 50 years," said her husband, Frank, who was born and reared in Romulus. The couple, who resided at 35516 Glenwood, Westland, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary Aug. 10, 1976.

Scott, who turned 78 on June 6, has a host of relatives in the Romulus area. He attended the 12th grade at Wayne High School, where he met Janice Austin, who would later become his wife.

Mrs. Scott graduated from Wayne High School in 1920 and attended Michigan State Normal College the following four years. Michigan State Normal College later became Eastern State U. and now is known as Eastern Michigan University in Ypsilanti.

In 1924, she spent the summer in New York City, where she had the privilege of taking piano lessons from Mme. Rosina Lhevinne, a world renowned pianist who gave concerts in Europe and America with her husband, Joseph.

She taught at the Michigan State Normal College Conservatory of Music for more than five years.

The Scotts were married in 1926 and Mrs. Scott was organist and choir director at the Congregational Church of Wayne from 1926 to 1946. She was organist for Lents Funeral Home in Wayne in the early 1960's and played for Uht Funeral Home in Westland from 1967-75.

In addition to those functions, Mrs. Scott was gifted to teach others to play and instructed hundreds of aspiring musicians how to become accomplished pianists.

Before moving to their present address, the Scotts lived 24 years on Wayne Road, just north of Glenwood Ave., in Westland.

"I remember back in 1926 before Wayne Road was paved when the streetcar from Detroit ran north in front of our house on its way to Plymouth and Northville," Scott recalled.

He was a high school social studies teacher in Detroit for 36 years, the last 21 at Redford High. He mentioned he got his masters degree in 1933, the year Franklin D. Roosevelt was elected president in the midst of the depression.

The Scotts spent the past several winters in the warm sunshine of Florida at the Country Club Estates Mobile Home Park in Venice, Fla. Mrs. Scott played the organ for the park choir and also entertained with piano and organ programs at the community hall on occasions.

In addition to her husband, Mrs. Scott is survived by her two brothers, Hugh and George Austin of Saline, and several nieces and nephews.

"It hardly seems like she's gone," said Scott wistfully.

And many others feel the same way.

Mormon missionaries labor in Wayne area

Now laboring in the Wayne area are two missionaries for the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints (Mormons). They are Elder Barry Chown of Fallbrook, Calif. and Elder Brad Hutchings of Lehi, Utah.

These missionaries have been called by the Prophet of the church to serve two years full-time in preaching the gospel of Jesus Christ.

In coming to Michigan all finances for their support have been secured in advanced so they will not be seeking money from the people they come in contact with.

The missionaries will be contacting people who are interested in the church by either pre-arranged appointments or by referrals. But when these first means of contact do not fill their working day that will go door-to-door seeking out those people who are interested in learning about the church.

In talking about the church two main subjects are covered. (1) The family programs of the church and (2) the early history and the beliefs of the church. The church is family-oriented and believes the family should be the strongest unit of society. If the family fails society will fail, if society fails the nation will fail.

One of the Prophets of the church has said: "No other success can compensate for failure in the home."

Because the church believes so strongly and wants to help everybody strengthen their family they have put two articles in the Reader's Digest April and June issues. They are entitled "Can You Have a Happier Family Life?" and "Can You — As a Man, As a Woman — Get More Satisfaction Out of Life?" The church also will be placing two more in the digest before the end of the year. These articles give some of the church's beliefs on the family and suggestions on how to help strengthen them.

The elders have extra copies of the articles and will be happy to give them to people who are interested in learning more about the church's stand on families.

The Elders also are prepared to present discussions to families interested in learning more about the Mormons. The discussions cover the beginning of the church and answer questions like "Where did we come from? Why are we here? and Where are we going?" These and other doctrines are covered in the discussions.

The Elders can be reached at 728-6770 between the hours of 7 and 9:30 a.m. and 9:30 to 10:30 p.m.

For senior citizens

Help with problems is phone call away

If you are a senior citizen in Wayne County and you have a problem—large or small—call 963-8800.

Help is a phone call away, says Ann Kolito, supervisor of the seniors information and referral (I-R) office.

Whether the problem is legal, financial, health, personal, or anything else, I-R will attempt to put the caller on the right road to solving it.

"The call may be a simple inquiry such as where is the nearest food site to my home," Ms. Kolito said, "or it may be more complicated, requiring a number of calls to social and private agencies."

There also is a referral follow-up service and counseling to establish a closer relationship between the office and the client.

Another important aspect of the I-R is that of advocacy. Essentially this means it goes to bat for the senior, according to Ms. Kolito.

"The worker may have to make a number of calls to determine if the caller is entitled to additional benefits," she explained.

The program does not limit itself to merely relying on requests for help in providing service for the seniors. The program actually reaches into many communities in the county and seeks out problems which affect the lives of senior citizens.

This is called "Outreach." In this effort, I-R is aided by field workers who visit senior citizens and food sites, such as community and religious groups.

For those seniors, who because of language barriers, do not know that services are available to them, I-R enlists the help of VISTA volunteers who do work in the ethnic communities. This is called "Project Senior Ethnic Find."

The Wayne County Office on Aging has a number of programs and services for seniors.

Living stone: Exotic plant is disguised

Unless you were looking for them, you might walk right over living stones (Lithops species) and never know they were there. These exotic little plants are so well camouflaged by their shape and dull, speckled coloration that they blend right into a background of soil and small stones.

In the wild in South Africa, they grow submerged in the soil up to their flat tops. When growing them as houseplants, plant them above the soil to prevent rotting.

Michigan State University horticulturists advise potting living stones in a soil made of two-thirds sand and one-third houseplant potting soil. Such a mix will drain well and dry out thoroughly between waterings.

Place the plants where they will be exposed to bright light or direct sun and temperatures between 65 and 90 degrees all year.

Because these plants are native to the southern hemisphere, they go dormant during the summer months—June through August—and growth during the winter—just the opposite of native northern plants. Therefore they need less frequent watering in the summer—once every three weeks or so—and more frequent watering and monthly feeding from September through May.

A sign that the plants are going dormant is the formation of a papery outer skin. Learn to look for this, the MSU experts advise, just in case the plants adapt to the northern seasons and begin to grow during the summer and go dormant during the winter. Overwatering during the dormant period can cause them to rot.

Living stones often are used in dish gardens with other desert plants.

College has opportunity for seniors

Senior citizens can enjoy a wealth of special opportunities as a result of some unique programs offered at Washtenaw Community College. These opportunities come with membership in an elite group at the college called the Golden Eagles. One of the best parts of this is that it's free.

What membership brings to those in the Golden Eagles is enrollment in any classes offered by the college at no cost, as well as use of all the college facilities and attendance at college events, such as art exhibits, lectures and special performances. It also enables members to enroll in other courses, designed for senior citizens, which are offered off-campus at places convenient for senior students.

Membership in the Golden Eagles is open to any senior citizen who is over 55 and retired or over 60, retired or not. Membership is maintained by registering in a class offered by the college following regular enrollment procedures.

For additional information, contact the registration or admissions office at 973-3543 or 973-3548.

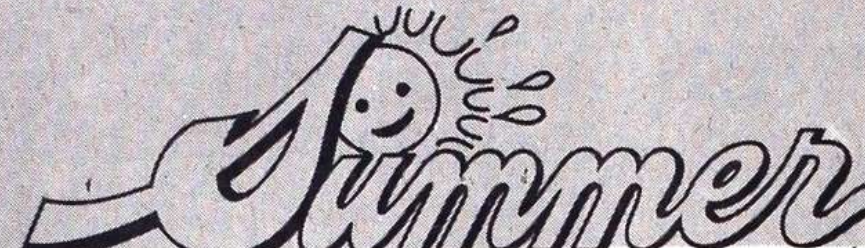

Series to look at Communism

"The Faces of Communism," a four-part series that examines four different countries where various forms of Marxism are practiced, will debut on Channel 56 July 13 at 8 p.m.

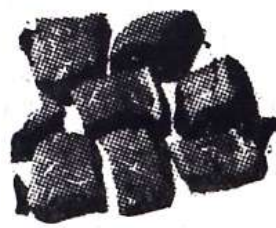

The programs are reported and narrated by Robert Kee, who has been described by Great Britain's Sunday Times as "the most alert and learned of all television journalists." Each program will be introduced by Kee and Robert MacNeil, executive editor of PBS's "MacNeil-Lehrer Report" (seen on Channel 56 weekdays at 7:30 p.m. and 8 a.m.). The first episode, on July 13, will focus on Italy. Many experts believe that Italy is the Western democracy where it is most likely that a Communist Party government will one day take over. The program will examine the role of the Communist Party in a democracy and the compromises and maneuverings that take place to mix the two different political concepts.

The following three shows will look at the People's Republic of the Congo, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia.

Kosin's celebrate silver anniversary

Cocktails and dinner, shared by 150 relatives and friends, marked the 25th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Chester F. Kosin of 14167 Elwell Rd., Belleville. The June 24 celebration began with a special blessing of the couple by The Rev. Raymond Skoney who presided at the six o'clock mass for their intention at St. Anthony's Catholic Church.

Chester F. Kosin of Detroit and Mary C. Maziarz of Bridgeport became husband and wife on June 20, 1953 at St. Christopher Church in Bridgeport after which they took up residence in the Belleville community. They later became parents of eight children: Mark A., Mary F., Rita E., Michael E., Chester F. III, Frank J., Patricia R. and Christopher A., who were all on hand to help make the event memorable.

The PNA Lodge was reserved for the party which featured dancing to the music of the Bob Katz Orchestra. Corsages were presented to members of the bridal coterie attending: Mrs. Robert (Fran) Sewejkis of Dearborn Heights, who'd been maid of honor, and Mrs. Frank (Pat) Lask of Saginaw, both sisters of the bride, as well as to Mrs. Virgil (Regina) Jensen of Westland, sister of the bridegroom.

The mothers of the honored couple also received complimentary flowers as did the bride's father and the one gentlemen from the original wedding party, William Fleszar of Lincoln Park.

A floral arrangement flanked by two wedding portraits centered the gift table while a 3-tiered wedding cake with the original ornament atop graced the head table in the dining room. Mrs. John Faulhaber of Ypsilanti baked and decorated the anniversary cake.

For her special day Mrs. Kosin donned a pearl grey sleeveless gown with a companion jacket to which she added a corsage of red roses tied with silver ribbons. She and her husband welcomed guests from St. Charles, Saginaw, Bay City, Bridgeport, Holton, Flushing, the Detroit suburbs, Ft. Myers, Fla. and Bollingbrook, Ill. A special surprise guest was Mrs. Kosin's college roommate, Mrs. Arthur Darby, who came from Flushing for the occasion.

Chet, who is owner-manager of Kosin's Auto Parts, Inc. of Inkster, was born and raised in Detroit and attended Chadsey High School. His wife, a native of Bridgeport, attended Saginaw High School and Central Michigan University.

He is affiliated with the Automotive Service Industries Assoc. (ASIA), Michigan Automotive Wholesalers Assoc. (MAWA) and the Automotive Engine Rebuilders Assoc. (AERA), as well as the Business Improvement Group (BIG) of Inkster. Mrs. Kosin, a member of the Home Arts Club, will serve as program chairman for the ensuing year. Eighty years ago on June 22, the parents of Mrs. Paul Dye were celebrating her arrival. Eight decades later on June 22, 1978, Mrs. Dye and her husband were not only marking her birthday and their 56th wedding anniversary but rejoicing in the birth of their great-granddaughter, Aimee Joy Brasseur.

The new addition to the family tree and the little gal who made parents of Paul and Joy Brasseur of 49051 I-94 Service Drive, Belleville, debuted at Beyer Memorial Hospital in Ypsilanti. Her 2:05 a.m. appearance was registered along with her 9 lb. - 5 oz. birth weight and 22-inch length.

Aimee Joy's grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Edmond Brasseur of Pallantine, Ill. and Mrs. Ruth Elhart of Holland, Mich. The Paul Dyes reside in Traverse City.

potpourri

BY LEE SMITH
Suburban Living Editor

Wish you could see and share with us the wondrous lushness and productivity of the garden which the green-thumb-man in our family manages to create each year. Everything is at its prettiest at the moment -- nothing having gone to post-harvest "rustiness" as yet.

At present we're delighting in fresh-cut head lettuce, tender beets, parsley, edible peapods (still!), crisp wax beans, scallions and sweet baby carrots.

By the time this sees print we'll have eaten the first of many, MANY zucchini squash. The tomatoes, nicely firm and plump, promise another record crop and the fireballs (the early variety) will be ready in about a week. That first planting of sweet corn will probably see the dinner table in late July and, contrary to that old farmer's legend, "knee-high by the Fourth of July", is already past Bert's waist.

Previews of coming attractions (which will be canned or fresh frozen) include Romano and green beans, broccoli, early cabbage and red cabbage, four more stands of sweet corn, (which were planted so as to continue a steady supply of the tender, sweet FATTENING ears), cucumbers, bell peppers, brussel sprouts, butternut, buttercup and acorn squash, Spanish onions and potatoes.

And, too, there's that non-edible crop off to one side, which add color by blossoming into bachelor buttons, marigolds, zinnias, calendulas, mums, etc.

It's sheer pleasure to be sitting on our deck, looking out at those neat rows (which just a few weeks back were mere furrows) and think about the pickles, stewed tomatoes, tomato juice, relishes and pickled beets which are to be canned plus all those goodies which will fill the freezer come fall.

There's nothing like a garden to spoil you forever --we NEVER buy store-bought broccoli or corn on the cob; it's almost like eating cardboard. "Mr. McGregor" HAS spoiled us!

He doesn't seem the type, does he? But Ed Mc Mahon (of Johnny Carson fame), according to columnist Robin Sloan, had a facelift in 1975.

A good topic for conversation, should you find yourself with people you hardly know, is restaurants. We found ourselves in just such a situation recently when we were put at a table (thankfully, it was for six) at a press shindig where we knew NONE of our tablemates. But food soon became the target and we ended up comparing, praising, knocking and recommending cuisine at various spots.

Deciding on the same subject for a future column bit, I jotted down the dishes we particularly enjoy while dining out and the best places we can, thus far, say have "the best" (according to OUR palates).

For the tastiest coleslaw and steamed shrimp, we like the Cracked Crab with another Ann Arbor eatery, the Oyster Bar and Spaghetti Machine, vying for top veal honors along with Hoppe's in Dearborn. At the former, it's four-stars for Veal Oscar and at the latter accolades for Rham Schnitzel.

We choose Chung's in Detroit for eggrolls (Mama Chin makes her own crisp "skins"); Carl's Chop House for cottage fries and short ribs; Haab's for crabmeat salad and mixed drinks; Northville Charley's for smelt; Heidi's in Wyandotte for lemon meringue and coconut cream pie (huh, Flo?); Flag's for fresh-squeezed orange juice and link sausage; Ye Olde Steak House in Windsor for baked onion soup; the Mayflower Steak House and Haab's for house dressings; Gilbert's Steak House for a super salad buffet; Plymouth Meeting House and Fairlane Club for Sunday brunch ---- and the list goes on.

Perhaps we can continue this preference segment at a later date AND, perhaps you'd like to contribute YOUR favorites. Give us a call tomorrow or any Thursday. It'll be fun to compare notes.

If you're thinking of throwing together a good old

Just finished another good book, "Condominium", and am in the throes of Robin Moore's "The Fifth Estate." Both will raise your dander so don't expect nice, light Pollyanna-ish reading if you tackle either the former, a 447-pager by John Mac Donald (famous for his Travis McGee series), or the 500-page paperback by the author of "The French Connection."

The first revolves around the rip-off of senior citizens who invest in a high-rise condominium on fictitious Fiddler Key in Florida and the other concerns the giant criminal conglomerates and their plan for a paramilitary takeover of the United States.

As I was trying to decide on a finale for "potpourri", the prodigal gardener-turned-duffer strode out to the deck, handed me his score card and said, "Take a look at THOSE scores."

Seeing a 39 for the back nine, I proceeded (backwards) to read, "Par, bogie, bogie, par, bogie, eagle -- EAGLE? ON A PAR THREE? YOU HAD A HOLE IN ONE?" Yahoo!

(I honestly think I was more excited than Jack, er -- Gary, -- Andy -- oh, what's his name ---?)

That most thrilling happening for a golfer occurred a week ago at Tecumseh Country Club where B.G. aced the 13th hole -- a 175-yarder -- with his 5-iron. Witnessing the coup were Belleville's Dutch Atchinson and Plymouth's Dr. Fred B. Faust and C.L. (Ike) Porter.

(Now it's MY turn ---)

THE BOTTOM LINE: (And, of course, you're expecting something about golf, right? Well, so as not to disappoint you -- "I just hit a hole in one!" yelled the golfer jubilantly. "Did you?" asked his wife who'd never been on a golf course before. "Do it again, dear, I didn't see you."

Ballet Week:

American Ballet Theatre stars at Meadow Brook

Meadow Brook Music Festival at Oakland University will offer a "Ballet Week" in July, featuring five performances by the American Ballet Theatre's highly skilled Ballet Repertory Company, under the direction of Richard Englund.

Featured soloists will be ballerina Leslie Browne, well-known for her portrayal of a young dancer in the movie, "The Turning Point", and Patrick Bissell, star of the American Ballet Theatre.

Miss Browne, Bissell and the Ballet Repertory Company, accompanied by the Detroit Symphony Orchestra, will perform July 27-29, beginning at 8:30 p.m. The Thursday and Saturday ballets are included in subscription series, while Friday evening's ballet is a non-subscription event. Individual tickets range from $4 on the lawn to $9 for reserved pavilion seats.

On Friday afternoon, the public is invited to attend a unique open rehearsal of the Ballet Repertory Company. During this lecture-demonstration, director Englund will introduce the members of the company who will perform excerpts from their repertory with commentary, music and some costumes. The rehearsal will begin at 1:30 p.m., with tickets selling for $3.50 each. A light salad luncheon will be available at Trumbull Terrace beginning at 12 noon, or visitors may bring their own picnic lunches.

A Young People's Concert, designed to introduce youngsters to the art of dance, is scheduled for 11 a.m. July 29. Entitled "Ballet and Beauty," the hour-long program will feature the Ballet Repertory Company demonstrating how the dances, techniques, music, costumes and story are all essential elements of a total performance. Tickets for this Young People's Concert are $3.50 each.

Local ballet students will have an opportunity to enroll in a Master Ballet Class to be taught by Richard Englund on July 27. The intermediate class is scheduled for 10 a.m., and the advanced class will be at 11:30 a.m. Both classes will be held in the Dance Studio, Varner Hall, on the Oakland University campus. Cost is $6 per class. For registration or further information, call 377-3100.

The Ballet Repertory Company, formed in 1972, is the smaller second company of the American Ballet Theatre. The company travels throughout the country featuring a roster of outstanding young dancers and a repertory ranging from classical ballet to contemporary choreography. Leslie Browne, whose motion picture debut earned her an Academy Award nomination, joined the renowned American Ballet Theatre in 1976 as soloist. Tickets to all performances may be purchased in person at the Meadow Brook Box Office. For additional program or ticket information, call the Music Festival at 377-2010.

'Step on a Crack'

Ellie, played by Cynthia Dozier (center) fights her way through real life problems with the help of her two imaginary friends, Frizbee (John Beem) and Lana (Mary Ottmann), in the children's play "Step on a Crack", which opens at the Hilberry Theatre today. The play will be performed at 1 p.m. Tuesdays and 10:30 a.m. Wednesdays and Thursdays throughout July in Wayne State University's graduate theatre. For reservations and information call the Hilberry Theatre box office at 577-2972.

'Falstaff' to be performed on TV-56's Opera Theatre

Giuseppe Verdi's last work, the comic opera "Falstaff," will be seen on "Opera Theater" July 10 at 9 p.m. on Channel 56.

"Falstaff" is part of the new 12-week season of "Opera Theater," a series of operas ranging from the light to the serious. "Falstaff" is based on the conceived machinations of Shakespeare's irascible Sir John Falstaff. Falstaff, during the course of the opera, tries unsuccessfully to woo not one, but two, of the ladies known as the Merry Wives of Windsor.

The BBC production of "Falstaff" is sung in English with translation by Eric Crozier and Joan Cross. The cast includes Geraint Evans as Falstaff, Regina Resnick as Dame Quickly, April Cantelo as Alice Ford and Norman Bailey as Ford.

Future performance on "Opera Theater" are scheduled to include "The Flying Dutchman," "The Yeoman of the Guard," "The Gondoliers" and the rock opera "Jack: A Flash Fantasy."

Mason degree recipients

Four Belleville residents were among 530 Masons from 11 southeastern Michigan counties to receive Scottish Rite Freemasonry's 32nd degree in a two-day reunion May 12-13 at the Detroit Masonic Temple. The Belleville Masons attending were Clifford E. Bills Jr. of Hamilton Street, Donnie G. Phipps of Arthur Street, Richard W. Stewart of Kennedy and Henry Zaborowski of Alden Street. The 284th reunion of the Detroit Scottish Rite Bodies was named in honor of the late Charles H. Patterson, a 33rd degree mason and former executive vice-president of the Ford Motor Co.

Belleville resident's assist helps young boy in Crete

Christos Stivaktakis, a boy in Crete, faces a brighter future today because Bill Banit of Belleville has undertaken his sponsorship through Save the Children, the international child assistance agency headquartered in Westport, Conn.

Save the Children provides community services, training and development help to more than 430 communities in the United States and in 17 countries overseas. Through this sponsorship Banit joins some 100,000 Save the Children donors who currently aid more than a quarter million have-not families around the world.

Sponsorship funds combined with those from other sponsors of children in the community, are used to support the people in self-help projects to benefit all the children. Improved schools, health care and income production are major concerns. Save the Children staff helps the people decide on priorities and offers training in the "how-to" of community development.

Commenting on this new sponsorship, Save the Children president, David L. Guyer, said: "Sponsorship help affects the lives of many people — the sponsored child, his or her family, the other children of the community and, of course, the sponsor.

"For sponsors the child represents in a very personal way not only the realities of poverty but tangible evidence that something can be done to help."

Guyer noted that every Save the Children sponsor receives a case history and picture of the child. Correspondence and visits are encouraged and warm personal relationships often develop.

Founded in 1932 to aid Appalachian victims of the depression, Save the Children is a pioneer in community-based development programs aimed at helping children by improving life in the communities where they live. The agency has been an innovator in developing partnership community assistance programs in which Save the Children help is matched by self-help activities in the community.

The agency holds consultative status with UNICEF and the United Nations Economic and Social Council. It helped formulate and is a signatory to the first code of fund-raising ethics for child-sponsorship agencies and actively supports federal legislation to insure ethical fund raising activities among all charitable organizations.

What is French TV like?

What do the French love as much as Americans, only it's different in France? The answer is watching television.

For three hours July 14, Channel 56 will provide an intimate view of French television and how it differs from the American version on "From Paris with Love: An Evening of French Television" starting at 9 p.m.

The program is divided into three segments. The first will feature songs by some of France's leading singers including Charles Aznavour, Mireille Mathieu and Sylvie Vartan.

The second segment will feature some of the most popular commercial in the American sense. French commercials on French television. Although French TV has commercials, it is not commercial in the American sense. French commercials are limited to 18 minutes a day on two of France's three networks and the third has no commercials at all. works and the third has no commercials at all.

The last part of the special will show excerpts from regular French programming. One of the highlights is the documentary "Paris by Night: The Champs-Elysees," that explores the night life in one of Paris' best-known areas, including the world famous Crazy Horse Saloon.

Hosting the program will be French "Speakerine" Evelyn Leclercq. Ms. Leclercq is one of many speakerines whose job is to cajole the viewers into staying tuned for an upcoming program. She will introduce segments of the program in English, from picturesque sites throughout Paris. English dubbing or subtitles will be used for the non-musical portions of the program.

Raincheck: It's the law

(This is one in a series of public service articles explaining in general terms, a provision of Michigan Law. Individuals who wish to determine the effect of any law upon their private legal affairs should consult with a private attorney.)

BY ATT. GEN. FRANK J. KELLEY

It won't get you into the ballpark at a future date but the idea is the same. As of this spring, if a store advertises a special and then runs out of the item before the sale is over, customers are entitled to rainchecks.

New consumer protection guidelines contained in the Consumer Item Pricing and Advertising Law require merchants who advertise non-perishable goods for sale at a reduced price, to include in the advertisement the number of days the sale will run, or state how many of the sale items are in stock.

If the advertisement tells how many items are available at the sale price, the customer takes his or her chance that the supply will last.

But if the merchant does not disclose the number of items available and runs out before the sale is supposed to end, the consumer must be given a raincheck.

This means the customer can buy the item at the sale price, when the retailer gets it back in stock. The merchandise must be made available within 90 days after the raincheck was issued. Once made available, the merchant is only required to hold the item for the consumer for seven days. If the customer fails to pick it up during that time, the merchant can then offer it for sale at the regular price.

The merchant does have one alternative to this. Instead of giving rainchecks the retailer can offer a similar item of equal or greater monetary value at the sale price, or at the same percentage off as the unavailable item.

This policy includes all kinds of sales. When an advertisement is prepared in advance of a close-out or clearance sale, the advertiser must list the number of items available at that time. If the goods are to be sold at the regular price until the day of the sale, the advertisement should list the number of items on hand the day the advertisement is written, then note this is "subject to prior sale."

Many stores have used rainchecks for years as a service to their customers. The Consumer Item Pricing and Advertising Law will make this practice universal. In doing so, it can serve to benefit both merchant and customer.

Requiring merchants to advertise the number of items on sale will help consumers to decide whether it is worth dashing out to the store to take their chance at picking up a bargain. Because of this, storekeepers will have fewer irate customers to deal with.

Field is fillin' fast

Where are the defending golf champs?

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

As expected the field for the 1978 City Championship Golf Tournament to be staged the weekend of July 22-23 at Fellows Creek in Canton Township is rapidly filling. More than 30 golfers accepted the proverbial "word to the wise" philosophy and have submitted their entry blanks.

Among those who are the latest to register are: Glenn Coffey, Brian D. Keefe, Roger Sanford, Lynn M. Dodds, Jerry Garner, Jasper Cacioppo, Ronald Hawkins, T.J. Rivard, Dolphas Canady, Willie Freeman, Thomas Drysdale, John G. Bordeaux, Bill Aro, Robert L.

Derrick, Ed Taylor, David H. Jaska, Sr., and David H. Jaska, Jr.

Though the field is expected to reach the limit of 100 golfers, as yet none of the defending champs have made their appearances.

Tom Piscopink of Wayne captured the tournament honors as well as the Wayne city title and the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy (presented by the Wayne Police Department to the top performance from Wayne) last year when he shot a six under par 138.

The defending champs from the other participating communities include: John Lyons (Westland), Paul Deedler (Canton), Jim

Streak to 6th straight victory

Unbeaten Studio Lounge 'class of Westland League'

Banging out nine runs in the second inning and tilting the boards for 10 more in the third, Studio Lounge slammed the doors on Westland Lock and Key 24-2 for their sixth consecutive victory and remain undefeated in the Westland Women's Softball League.

Pitcher Lenor Dreyfus fashioned a four-hitter in the triumph but gave up a two-run top of the seventh homer to Debbie Whitson. Karen Holt and Jan Crawford each singled for the losers.

Tammy Mauno discovered the hard way why Studio is considered the team to beat in the league as the Lock & Key hurler was tagged for 26 hits, five of those by Val Finfrock who drilled a homer and collected four singles and drove in four runs for the winners. Jackie Randall made her three singles count for three RBIs, while Jean Sisson failed to hit for the cycle when she didn't get a homer. Her three hits, however, put three runs on the board.

Johnny's Shell stayed one game off the leader's pace and tied for second with J & D Auto as it padded its record to 5-1 at the expense of Crestwood Dodge, 18-8.

Crestwood looked good in the opening inning as Rona Bibeau, Jeannine Gwizdak and Colleen Dittmar led the hitting assault on winning pitcher Sheryl Schaffer.

The Dodge gals had a 5-0 lead in the opening inning but when Johnny's came to bats in the bottom of that inning they erupted for 12 runs and put the game away.

Losing hurler Bev Liverance had her problems with Carol Mull who laced a homer, a pair of triples and a single, driving in four and scoring four runs. Sue Chopp chipped in three hits, including a double and two RBIs while Crystal Minto swatted three singles for the winners.

Ms. Schaffer gave up a single and double to Bibeau and Colleen Dittmar and Gwizdak latched on to a pair of singles.

Hudson's of Westland squelched Token Lounge 19-5 as winning pitcher Doris Madar received ample hitting support from Terry McKnight and Carol Marshall who banged out three and two hits, respectively. Miss Madar helped her own cause with three singles, good for three RBIs off of loser Donna Nisun.

Linda Smith, Dana Reitted and Pat Mayo each accounted for two hits for the losers.

In the only other game, Sheryl Chomiuk gave up three runs to the Power Packs in the first inning then went on to shut out her rivals as VFW Bova Post overpowered the Power Packs 18-3.

Vicki Pier had an excellent night at the plate as she cracked a pair of singles, a double and a homer for five RBIs, and teammates Mark Brown and Rhonda Drhier checked in with three and two hits, respectively.

Loser Barb McRoberts got nine hits from her teammates but most of those were in the opening inning. Sandy Clark rapped three singles and three RBIs, and Vickie Earl and Kathy Gillette wound up with two and one single, respectively.

Play it again, Sam

By TOM MOORADIAN
ANP Sports Editor

Before we continue the mundane job of sportswriting, let's open the mail pouch and see what our readers have been debating about. The first letter considers the "Belleville 8" - eight coaches who resigned recently over a dispute about where some of the mills recently approved by voters in Van Buren should go.

Here is what the reader has to say:

Dear Mr. Mooradian,

I would like to take a moment of your time to let you and your readers know an insider's point of view what Sam Vicchy, the Belleville High School swimming coach means to the Belleville community.

I hope this letter will give your readers some insight concerning Sam's stand on the athletic question in the Van Buren Public School system.

I have coached with and have known Sam for the past seven years as a diving coach and a swimming coach. During that time I have known Sam to be a man of the highest principles. Sam has given of himself as a coach and has become a father-image to many of the young swimmers which has gone unnoticed by most of the people in the community.

The little things that he does for his student-athletes is one of the things I feel sets him above the rest. For instance, I have seen swimmers sit in his office crying, spilling all of their problems into his lap; countless times parents call him at all hours asking him to help their sons or daughters through a problem.

I think Barry Susterka, (1972 High School All-American) put it best: "What the coach has taught me most is how to deal with the ups and downs of life."

With all of his openness and caring for his swimmers, Sam is also very demanding. He pushes his student athletes to their limits; he demands that they be good students, not just average; he demands that they give their all in practice and in everything they do.

In my eyes, this has a great deal to do with the mutual respect and deep love that he and his athletes have for one another, a respect and love that can only be measured by time.

Sam also has another quality which sets him above the rest, that is his uncanny ability to obtain college scholarships for his athletes. Since 1971, my first year in Belleville, no less than 20 swimmers and divers have been offered some kind of athletic aid to various universities.

The reason for this great number of scholarships has to be credited to Sam. He demands and receives excellence in the classroom and in the pool. His program has an excellent reputation among college coaches. They know that when a Belleville swimmer comes to their university they will usually be able to handle the academic and athletic pressures that go along with college life.

Sam's resignation has hurt me and this community deeply. But I, for one, totally support his stand and feel that it is but another example of his principles, his goals for this community.

In closing, Mr. Mooradian, let me tell you a short story that will put in a nutshell the feelings I see our swimmers have for Sam. Last March, at the Suburban 8 Conference swimming and diving championships, we lost to Dearborn because we were unable to win the last relay. After the meet, Sam sat on a cot, totally exhausted and emotionally drained. As I watched I saw one of the most beautiful, touching sights I will ever see - swimmer after swimmer came to Sam and hugged him and openly wept with him. I heard one young man through his tears say, "Coach, I know we let you down, but you know we all love you. And thanks for all of the time and things you have done for us."

Mr. Mooradian, this is what Sam Vicchy is all about. So, Belleville, you can hire a new varsity swim coach, but you can never replace Sam Vicchy.

Respectfully,
Frank M. Musser

And you know summer has arrived when Little League mothers start dropping off complaints. But, guess we can't deny them their forum. Here's Number Uno for the season.

Dear Mr. Mooradian;

In our opinion, the forfeit of the game between the Yankees and Boasting an untainted 13-0 record, the Rangers last week sewed up the Belleville-Van Buren Junior Baseball Association's American League championship. The team, made up of players 9-12 years old is sponsored by Belleville Moose Lodge No. 934. The championship lineup included: Patrick Casey, (from row, from left), David Brinkerhoff, Brian Hall, Paul Pollard, Mike Soave and Frank Ashe; second row are Rickey Stover, Ron Thomas, Ron Smolen, Tim Samsel, John Fields, Steve Korgal, Bob Mullins and Darin Kukola; third row are assistant manager Jim Pollard and manager Keith Brinkerhoff. Chum's edges Extra Point in 'duel of undefeateds'

It was one of those showdowns between two undefeated teams.

Extra Point and Chums & Drake had untarnished records before they clashed last week in Wayne Parks and Recreation Department's Over 35 Softball League.

And it looked as if Extra Point was going to have its way...then Chums batted in the bottom of the third and exploded for seven runs to take command of the situation 8-6 and went on to win a thriller 12-10 to remain undefeated in five starts and in sole possession of first place.

Though Extra Point rallied for four runs in the sixth, it wasn't enough. The loss was its first in six outings and left them in second place, a half-game ahead of Eloise Inn (4-1).

Frank Martinez got off to that shaky start against Extra Point but settled down and shut out his rivals in the third, fourth, fifth and seventh innings. He gave up two RBIs each to Tom Mullidore and Bob Creekmore who also tripled for the losers. Ron Wojewski led the hitting attack on Martinez, though, swatting three singles.

Loser Jeff Hogan was tagged for 17 hits, including homers by Ron Jones who had three hits and three RBIs, and Jerry Higgs, who also homered in a pair of runs.

Chappy Reynolds checked in with a triple and single and Hawk Davidson singled and doubled for the unbeaten league leaders.

Chum's survived a close call from fifth place (2-4) Teledyne, winning a cliffhanger 9-8 thanks to a two-run last of the seventh surge. Corey Hayes and Ron Ashburn scored the tying and winning run on an error and single by Tim McCarthy. Hayes and McCarthy turned in with a pair of singles, and Jerry Poplin and Tom Davidson each doubled off of losing pitcher Joe Kadlac who gave up a total of 10 hits.

Hayes, the winner, was tagged for three hits - two of those doubles - by Jerry Pino, while Kadlac, John Rothel, and Glen Wiper each had two hits.

Extra Point chalked up its fifth consecutive victory by subduing Tasee Freez 15-3 as winner Hogan gave up nine hits, including a homer to Jim Farmer and two hits apiece to Dick Helleppie, Frank Burton and Art Morton.

Frank Nagy was charged with the loss as Hogan, Norm Beadley, Creekmore each smacked home runs.

A seven-run top of the seventh rally fell short for Jack's Sporting Goods who succumbed to Eloise Inn 19-16 in their first meeting of the season. Both teams slapped out 22 hits, but Eloise built up a 13-5 lead after two complete innings then hung on as the losers launched a counter-offensive.

Kadlac, the winner, helped his cause with a double and triple and he got ample hitting support from Rothel, Daniels and Art Fielder who each hammered homers.

Phil Luke, John Dobozy and Ed Glasscock had three hits off of Kadlac who served up a single and homer to Bill Muncie and a pair of singles and double to Tom Daily.

Eloise Inn broke a nine-all deadlock to edge Tasee Freez 10-9. The losers came up with the tying run in the seventh but Ken Roberts smacked three sacrifice flies including one in the seventh which settled the issue.

Rothel latched on to four hits, Daniels had three while Roberts finished with two singles to help Lenny Chalmers earn the close decision.

Chalmers had his problems with Chuck Brown who had three hits, Ray LeCornu also had three singles while Dick Gargo and Dave Jones

They're best in Central West

Putting together a five-game winning streak in the stretch, the Footprints captured the Central West Division girls' softball championship last week. The champs boasted an over-all 10-2 won-lost record. Members of the Westland Youth Athletic Association team are: Cheryl Patrell (kneeling, from left), Chris Cabrera, Julia Elkins,

J & D Auto is driving on the collision course

If neither unbeaten J & D Auto or Tasee Freez changes its course, there'll be a collision soon that could produce the next Wayne Parks and Recreation Women's Softball League champ.

By virtue of playing one game more than J & D, Tasee Freez (6-0) has the top of standings to itself, but the J & D contingent is right there with a perfect 5-0 mark.

J & D bombed fifth place Jake's Lounge 27-11 for its fifth win as the victors exploded for 12 runs in the first inning after Jake's put four runs on the board in that frame.

J & D sent 15 batters to the plate in the opening inning and got excellent hitting for the game from Gaye Diehl who homered and doubled and accounted for four runs batted in. Sheryl Soltice also banged out three singles. Mary Porter pounded out a homer and Lou Hoelt and Sharon McMasters split four hits against losing hurler Donna Fowler who gave up 15 safeties.

Cindy Perusse and Billie Snider homered off of winner Mary Porter who also served up a pair of singles to Pam Fitzgerald.

Tasee Freeze came up with five runs in the second inning to shake loose from Turner-Demmer 10-7 in a game that featured two undefeated teams. Though Turner cut the gap to 6-4 in the fourth, it never saw the lead again.

Maureen McClintosh tripled and had three RBIs, Ronnie Gross made her two singles count for two RBIs. Nancy Wojewski also had two singles off of winning pitcher Renee Burnie who helped her cause along with three singles.

Losing hurler Pat Bledsoe also was touched for three hits by Brenda Schwartz, two by Ginny Hathorn and a single and double by Kim Schwartz.

Wayne Federal Savings got a clutch single by winning pitcher Nancy Blackmore that paved the way to a five-run second inning and a 6-3 triumph over Unistrut. Blackmore scattered three hits, one of those was a run-producing single to losing pitcher Fran Murphy.

In other action, Turner-Demmer erupted for three runs in the late innings to get past Earl Keim 8-5 which gave them their fifth win in six starts.

Bledsoe was the winner as she 10-hit her rivals, yielding a pair of triples to Sue Richardson, three singles to Sue Mackey and a pair of singles to Kathy Battle.

Loser Debbie Reid was tagged for a triple and three singles by Sue Dobke while Ellen Doolin, Nancy Wojewski and Gross each had two hits. One of Gross' safeties went for a three-bagger.

Keim destroyed skidding Commercial Power Brakes 20-3 as the winners scored four times in each of the first three innings, then exploded for eight runs in the fifth. Debbie Pew and Kathy Podgorny split three hits while Geri Lapere drove in a run for the winners.

Cathy Callagari had two of the six hits by the losers and one of those was a double.

Standard Federal and Club Canton came out swinging in the last inning and when the dust cleared, Club Canton had a slim 10-9 victory. Standard had rallied for five runs in the sixth to take a 9-7 lead, but the Canton club countered with three in the bottom of the inning to win.

Blackmore was charged with the loss after going 6 2-3 innings while Brenda Knoons worked 5 2-3 innings and teamed with Jodi Morris who pitched one-third inning for the Cantonites.

Stephanie Mauity rapped out three singles and Shirley Bartkowiak had a pair of doubles and a single while Wanda Daily and Nelda Alley split four of the 12 Canton hits.

Annette Jagodowski bagged two of the seven Standard Federal hits.

In one of the longest games of the campaign, Commercial Powers outlasted Standard Federal's 3-2 in 11 innings. Commercial settled the issue when Kathy Ceane's bouncer a grounder to short and it was misplayed, allowing Darlene Dietz to score the tie-breaker.

Theresa Callagari was the winning pitcher as she gave up nine hits, three to Blackmore, and singles to Laina Floyd and Debbie East. Loser Betty Porter was touched for two hits by Callagari, Ceane and Cheryl Mayeran.

J & D meanwhile crushed Westway Trucking 17-8 in an abbreviated "mercy rule" game to stay in the chase for the league title. The winners put 13 runs on the board in the second inning, then added 10 more in the next to put the game out of reach.

Westway made a game of it the first inning when it scored four runs off of winning hurler Linda Sylvester who gave up three hits to Lou Nagy and a double and single to Cindy Howell who also had three RBIs.

Losing pitcher Pam Cramer just couldn't silence the bats of Cindy Lillis who collected four singles and two RBIs, Lisa Pocaru who belted a homer and two singles, chasing home three runs and Rita Woods who picked up a couple of singles.

2 team title race in Westland Major's

After seeing its eight game winning streak shattered, Big Bill's Sporting Goods bounced back last week and annihilated third place Shoppe Around 16-8 and edged Castelli Realtors 11-0 to remain in reach of undefeated Studio Lounge in the Westland Parks and Recreation Men's Adult Softball League.

Bill's now has a 10-1 won-lost ratio, while Studio Lounge is perfect in 11 games and it now is apparent that the title race comes down to these two teams for third place Shoppe Around has fallen four games off the leader's pace.

Steve Patterson twirled a 12-hitter in Bill's 16-8 triumph over Shoppe Around but he had his troubles with Bill Pierce who drilled a pair of balls over the fence for homers and drove in four of the eight runs. Dennis Reitz also homered over the fence against Patterson and singled to account for three RBIs and Guy Burke checked in with three singles.

Vern Westerlund paced the hitting attack against loser Larry Holt who gave up a homer, double and two singles to the Big Bill's slugger.

Perry Pappas and Dick Saylor split six of the 22 Bill's hits.

Bill's survived a pesky sixth place Castelli thanks to a last of the seventh two run rally that lifted them to a narrow 11-10 victory.

Castelli stunned the second place team momentarily in the fifth when it broke loose for seven runs to go ahead 10-8. But two runs in the fifth, one more in the sixth and the decisive two in the seventh turned things around for Big Bill's.

Don Chute and Westerlund each collected two hits and two RBIs for the winners, while Pappas chipped in three singles.

Patterson, the winning pitcher again, was tagged for a pair of hits by Dennis Watson and Denny Moyle while Mark Koss' single drove in a run for the losers. Tom Traub was the losing pitcher.

Scoring in each of their six innings, Studio Lounge routed the Rockets 22-10 and also whipped Metro Maintenance Supply 16-8 to remain undefeated on the year.

The Rockets got to winning pitcher Ron Jones for 15 hits, three by Mark Wozniak and John Irwin while Joe Rysztak drove in a run and scored twice thanks to a couple of singles.

Mike Kusutich belted three over-the-fence homers for the winners and also knocked in four runs, while teammate Dennis Kesick hammered two over the fence and contributed three RBIs. Dennis James had four hits, including a triple and three singles as Ron Jones earned the victory on the mound.

Winning pitcher Tom Davidson gave up six runs in the fifth inning but it didn't hurt Studio which has a substantial 14-2 edge at that time in their 16-8 triumph over the maintenance supply crew.

Daniels connected for a couple of homers, both winding up over the fence and singled to account for four RBIs and Kusutich smacked a homer and single to drive in three runs while Greg Kuhn carved out three singles against losing pitcher Charlie Meyers.

Jim Taylor had three hits, Dpn Middaugh and Dean Gherardini split four singles for the losers.

Maintenance, though, exploded for seven runs in the first inning against losing pitcher Rex Chapman to humble John's Place Party Store 22-2. A last of the seventh two-run spurt robbed Meyers of a shutout.

Jerry Kobe had a two-run homer for the losers and John Dobbins turned in with a pair of singles, but that didn't offset the potent bats of Barry Kenyon who homered, had two triples and singled to personally account for four runs batted in. Rick Kenyon had a homer, triple and single, missing the cycle by a double while Larry Ayotte had a single, double and triple and lacked getting the cycle because of a homer.

Jack's struck for a seventh inning run to nip Krajenke Auto 8-7 as Tim Kennedy was credited with the victory and Darry Geuther sustained the loss. Dean Morrison had three hits, Cliff Davidson banged out a triple and double had three RBIs while John Rayburn checked in with a pair of hits for the losers.

Joe Celeskey drilled an over the fence homer, doubled and had two singles for three RBIs and Ken Bear chipped in three singles.

John Rayburn's single and double brought home two Krajenke runs. Castelli's parlayed the 11-hit pitching of Traub and some fine hitting by Paul Posluszny, Mark Koss and Dennis Watson into an 11-4 victory over Krajenke.

Traub gave up two hits each to Cliff Davidson, Steve Gordon and Russ Gentner, while Posluszny tagged loser Gentner for three hits. Koss slammed an over-the-fence homer, tripled and doubled in two runs.

J & D sent 15 batters to the plate in the opening inning and got excellent hitting for the game from Gaye Diehl who homered and doubled and accounted for four runs batted in. Sheryl Soltice also banged out three singles. Mary Porter pounded out a homer and Lou Hoelt and Sharon McMasters split four hits against losing hurler Donna Fowler who gave up 15 safeties.

Cindy Perusse and Billie Snider homered off of winner Mary Porter who also served up a pair of singles to Pam Fitzgerald.

Tasee Freeze came up with five runs in the second inning to shake loose from Turner-Demmer 10-7 in a game that featured two undefeated teams. Though Turner cut the gap to 6-4 in the fourth, it never saw the lead again.

Maureen McClintosh tripled and had three RBIs, Ronnie Gross made her two singles count for two RBIs. Nancy Wojewski also had two singles off of winning pitcher Renee Burnie who helped her cause along with three singles.

In one of the longest games of the campaign, Commercial Powers outlasted Standard Federal's 3-2 in 11 innings. Commercial settled the issue when Kathy Ceane's bouncer a grounder to short and it was misplayed, allowing Darlene Dietz to score the tie-breaker.

Theresa Callagari was the winning pitcher as she gave up nine hits, three to Blackmore, and singles to Laina Floyd and Debbie East. Loser Betty Porter was touched for two hits by Callagari, Ceane and Cheryl Mayeran.

J & D meanwhile crushed Westway Trucking 17-8 in an abbreviated "mercy rule" game to stay in the chase for the league title. The winners put 13 runs on the board in the second inning, then added 10 more in the next to put the game out of reach.

Westway made a game of it the first inning when it scored four runs off of winning hurler Linda Sylvester who gave up three hits to Lou Nagy and a double and single to Cindy Howell who also had three RBIs.

Losing pitcher Pam Cramer just couldn't silence the bats of Cindy Lillis who collected four singles and two RBIs, Lisa Pocaru who belted a homer and two singles, chasing home three runs and Rita Woods who picked up a couple of singles.

Sports Meridian

the Twins on June 21 in the Wayne Recreation League was totally unfair.

We, the Yankees, were informed by Larry Jaskolski who officiated that game, that our game was forfeited to the Twins because of actions of our manager.

It disturbs us to find out that Mr. Halley, who has something to do with running our league, was not available for phone calls. When two of the parents went to the Community Center, they found Mr. Halley about to leave. When the ladies started to ask him some questions, he said it didn't matter to him if they went to the City Council, the ruling would stand.

During the game, the umpire made a call which our manager (Yankees) knew was wrong so our manager went to find Mr. Collier who is supposed to know all the rules and he ruled in our favor.

It seems to us that from that point on the umpire was not neutral but was waiting for our manager or us to do something wrong. We had to stay seated on the bench while the other team was allowed to stand against the fence and chatter. He informed us we could not chatter. Mr. Collier also told us this rule.

What we would like to know is why we were told to "sit down and shut up" while the other team wasn't?"

If this forfeit rule holds, well, frankly, we think it stinks.

Class B leader falls

Angies' jolts Unistrut, 9-8

Riding high on a 10-game winning streak, Unistrut of Detroit ran up against fourth place Angies' Lounge and crashed 9-8, sending a wave of speculation and hope throughout the Wayne Class B Men's Softball League.

The loss, though it didn't erase Unistrut's first place image, did however jeopardize its top of the league standings. It renewed 9-3 Krajenke's hope of catching the frontrunner.

Angies' exploded for seven runs in the bottom of the sixth after losing pitcher Tim Wienack had blanked the winners for four straight innings. Unistrut blew an 7-0 lead, wasting the hitting performances of Del Hicks who rapped out three hits including a single, double and homer. Ron Kenney also checked in with three hits, two were doubles. Winning pitcher Scott Yateman gave up 16 hits, while both Tom Catanzarite and Dennis Malaney singled and doubled for Angies.

Jack's and Jakes failed to find the necessary players for their confrontation with Unistrut which was awarded a victory via a forfeit.

The Knights of Columbus erupted for a phenomenal 15 runs to plaster Priority Pro's, 28-7 Kevin Heaney and Norm Swope split the pitching chores for the winners with each getting four hits - two singles and two doubles apiece. Bob Kom-mender turned in with three singles and Jim Bushy also had three hits, two went for doubles off of loser Jim Lawrence.

Lawrence collected a single and double while teammate Kevin Allen had the game's lone roundtripper. Tom Emig socked three singles while Dave Smith swatted a triple and single for the losers.

Seals 2nd best in nation

A team of Cerebral Palsied athletes representing the Tri-City Therapeutic Recreation Program and the Wayne County Easter Seal Society finished second in the first National Cerebral Palsy. The Tri-City Seal's 14 athletes also received a number of individual honors as well.

"The Seals" finished second in the team standings to teams representing Connecticut, New Hampshire, Rhode Island and Massachusetts.

Activities were centered in the Wayne State University and Belle Isle area. Events included billiards, table tennis, bowling, bicycling, swimming and a variety of track and field events.

Participating in the National Games were 150 cerebral palsied athletes representing 13 states. The competition was unique in that the cerebral palsied athletes competed in one of seven classes which were formed to allow the athletes the opportunity to compete with others who have the same degree of ability.

Highlights of the games include Garden City resident, Larry Olsen, being selected to represent the United States in the International Cerebral Palsy Games scheduled for Edinburgh, Scotland.

Larry is one of 17 athletes selected to represent the United States. The team will depart on July 12, and return on July 24th.

The Tri-City Seals' headcoach, Mike Mushett was also selected to coach the United States Team. Two athletes were also chosen as outstanding athletes in their class. These "super athletes" are Ed Brown of Westland and Kent Anderson of Livonia.

Other team members, who made a substantial contribution to the Tri-City Seals' success were Linda Marquette, Janisse Opitz, Wanda Patak, Donna McGuire, Patricia Orr, Rick Masi, Gary Tremaine, Larry VAristo, Candy DeMarois, John Sacco and John Goliembioski. Team coaches and chaperones besides Mike Mushett were, Mary Beth Watkins, Chuck Brock, Donna Stowell, Sandy Kraus, Norma Vanderkief, Lisa Blossingham, Frank McCallhill, Lars Otosen, Cathie and Mary Anne Kobak, and Carole Steubbe.

The Tri-City Therapeutic Recreation Program is co-sponsored by the Recreation Departments of Wayne, Westland and Garden City. For program information please call 261-7030.

2 from area win letters

Freshmen Joseph Schieda of Romulus and Mark W. Boyd of Livonia were among those who were awarded letters in track this season at Adrian College.

The Adrian track team finished with a 3-3 league record, and third in both the MIAA relays and field day.

Boyd, a biology major, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Boyd, 14734 Richfield, while Joseph is the son of Mrs. Susan Ruth Schieda of 15329 Meadow.

The power generated from your car's engine to drive your car flows to the driving wheels (usually the rear wheels), through the transmission, driveshaft and rear axle (together, called the drive line). Drive lines in today's cars are scientifically designed, thereby will give long service, with proper maintenance. If your car has a manual transmission, it also has a clutch, which you operate with a foot pedal when you shift gears. When your foot is off the pedal, a disc connected to the transmission is squeezed between two plates driven by the engine. When you push down on the pedal, you release the disc and disconnect the engine from the transmission, permitting gears to be shifted. With an automatic transmission, a fluid turbine device does the job of the foot clutch.

All types of engine repair work is done in the fully-equipped machine shop at KOSIN'S AUTO PARTS, 26831 Michigan Ave., INKSTER! Our expert mechanics work on any size and type of engine from motorcycle to Diesel. We handle automotive, industrial, marine and agricultural engines, and tackle the most challenging engine repair problems. We also carry a complete line of auto parts for both foreign and domestic cars.

Call KOSIN'S at 563-3894.

We are open daily from 8 A.M. until 8 P.M., and on Saturdays until 5 P.M. Bank Americard and Master Charge are honored.

Wydick (Inkster) and Bernie Jedowski (Garden City).

The two-day, 36-hole tournament is open to the residents of the five communities: Wayne, Westland, Garden City, Canton and Inkster, and is held to determine separate city championships for those cities. Eligible are amateur male golfers of all five communities who must have reached their 18th birthday prior to August 1 of the year of the tournament.

There is an $17.50 entry fee which covers the green's and trophy costs. Trophies will be awarded to the first, second, and third place finishers in each flight and additional flight competitions will be held for each city if total entry is sufficient. In case of a tie for a trophy, a "sudden playoff" will determine the winner.

There will be an additional trophy awarded to the individual low scorer of the entire field (medalist) and the Lenny Anderson Memorial Trophy will be presented to the winner of the city of Wayne competition.

Also, the low five scorers from each city are eligible to play on the city team in the state recreation golf tournament usually conducted in August. All other golfers will become alternates in order of finish.

Any golfer who lives or works for a tax-paying or tax-supported institution in any of the competing cities is also eligible to play in the tournament, however, only bona fide residents may represent a city on the team in the state.

To enter, a competitor should fill out the entry blank accompanying this story and, along with the check of $17.50, mail or drop it off at the Associated Newspapers offices, 35540 Michigan Ave., 48184 Michigan Ave.

Please make checks payable to TOM MOORADIAN, sports editor. Further information may be ob-

Burghuff battles to remain top Class A team

Burghuff Bar served notice in the form of a 17-10 victory over second place Garden City Sports that it is in first place and intends to stay on the top of the Wayne Class A Men's Softball League.

The victory gave Burghuff a 9-4 record, while Garden City has compiled a 7-4 record (two games were rained out). Still very much alive in its quest for a title is Das Hofbrauhaus which has won seven of its 12 games this season.

Burghuff erupted for seven runs in the fifth to put the game out of reach, though Garden City came back for four runs in the bottom of the fifth.

Corky Hays, tagged for 16 hits and accounting for a pair of doubles and a single, was the winner, while Joe Kadlec took the loss. He gave up 16 hits, including a triple and two singles to Dave Seaman, three singles to Tim Stone and homers to Norm Beasley and Dean Minton.

Ron Miller latched on to four singles and Mike Megill singled and doubled while Ed Mosse finished with a pair of singles for the losers. Meanwhile, Das Hofbrauhaus hung on to nip the Broncos 11-10 in one of the closest games of the evening. The Broncos shocked the winners with a seven-run second inning which propelled them into the lead 7-2, but Das came back and scored twice in the bottom of that inning and exploded for seven big ones in the third to claim the necessary decision.

Roeder's Tropical posted its second victory of the campaign at the expense of a surprised Jim Hangar's contingent which let the game get away in the third when the winners had amassed an 9-1 lead. Jim's scored four runs in the fourth but then Roeder's came up with three tallies in each of the fifth and sixth inning to win easily.

Bill Pierce slammed a pair of singles and doubles and singlehandedly accounted for four of the 15 Roeder's hits, while Dwayne Hicks and Avis Dorsey each had three hits.

Winning pitcher Larry Holt served up a pair of doubles to both Rich Messler and Dan Sowa while Jim Kolodziej belted two singles and Keith Drake strolled off the diamond with a single and double.

Chum's edges Extra Point Bar in 'duel' split four singles between them.

Bill Farmer suffered the setback.

In the only other game, it was "no contest" between Teledyne and winless Ernie's Towing as Teledyne scored four in the first, erupted for nine more in the third and tallied seven times in the fifth to give George Lewis the victory. Jerry Pasing strung together five singles and two RBIs, while Glen Wiper homered and singled twice, driving in four runs and Don Lance and Mike McDonald combined for three hits.

Lewis gave up two singles and one RBI apiece to Bill Bartel and Victor Kraus while Drews smacked a double.

Losing pitcher Pat Kenny delivered 25 hits.

Torrid title race wages in Blue loop

League-leading Crestwood Dodge took a night off and watched runners-up Westland Florists and Johnnies Union 76 slug it out in the Westland Parks and Recreation's Minor White Division Softball League.

When all the swinging was over, Westland Florists had a close 5-3 victory over their arch rivals and was still in contention for the title.

The victors have a 5-1 won-lost ratio and are entrenched in second place, one game behind the frontrunning Dodge boys who have won all five of their starts this year.

The Florists broke a scoreless three inning deadlock with five runs in the top of the fourth, then hung on as Johnnie's came back for two runs in their fifth and one in the sixth.

Larry Kovacs laced three singles, while Dave Welland and Bill Langley split four hits for the winners. Rocky Dudzinski belted a two-run homer for the losers and Chuck Copland latched on to a pair of singles.

Meanwhile, McCurdy's Optical erupted for four runs in the first inning and went on to win its fourth in five starts at the expense of the Silver Bullets, 12-4. Winning pitcher Ed Spontack gave up three hits, including a triple to George Kordie while Dirk Crowley and Chuck Rowe each had two singles.

Eddie Warren needed a single in order to complete his "cycle" against loser, Paul Newsome.

Eddie Warren knocked in four runs thanks to a homer, triple and double, while Roy Todd and Jim Sipe had a pair of singles apiece.

Berry's Home Supply struck for five runs in the third inning and went on to beat B.J.'s Lounge 13-7 as Mike Terry also missed the "cycle" by a homer. His triple, double and single produced three RBIs.

Flat Rock Speedway shifts into fast gear

Dick Barker of Fraser was literally "handed" the 30 lap ARCA Late Model feature Saturday night at Flat Rock Speedway.

Barker made a clean sweep by setting fast time with a 12:66, won the dash, and the pursuit race.

Larry LaMay of Mt. Clemens led the race until lap 10 when Joy Fair of Pontiac dove under LaMay and took the lead. Fair cruised out front until he collided with Andy Gordon of Trenton, putting Fair into the wall and out of the race.

Barker then took the lead for the final two laps and registered the victory. LaMay finished second, Al

Schwartz of Union Lake was third and Harry Pingston of Detroit was fourth. Bill Wargo finished fifth.

LaMay and Chuck Roumell of Irish Hills were Late Model heat winners.

Ed Briggs of Belleville posted fast time with a 14:21; Dave Miller of Taylor and Ray Gaddis of Romulus also claimed heat race wins.

A big week of racing at Flat Rock Speedway is on tap with racing on Wednesday with Super 6's, Figure 8's, and Street Stocks. Time trials are at 7 p.m. and racing gets underway at 8 p.m.

It's all-star time in Romulus league

The women's softball teams in the Romulus Parks and Recreation Department will take a break from the routine league schedule to get ready for the annual All-Star Classic.

The top players from the Class A and Class B leagues will meet at 6 p.m., Sunday, July 9 at Elmer Johnson Park and if last year's game is any indication of what's in store for fans this year, it should be a thriller.

The underdog Class B team rallied to within one run in the late innings, falling short 9-8. They'll be out for revenge next Sunday.

RUSTPROOFING FACTS (AND SOME CURRENT FICTION)

FICTION: Some car manufacturers are now using anti-corrosion materials and methods that eliminate the need for rustproofing.

FACT: Every 1977 car requires rustproofing protection after it leaves the factory. Every rust-prone area in a car must be protected to assure real rustproof protection.

FACT: Ziebart Rustproofing offers the protection of an exclusive process that has proven its effectiveness in preventing rust-through. Over two million satisfied customers can't be wrong.

FICTION: Car dealers can now offer rustproofing that is the equivalent of Ziebart rustproofing.

FACT: Only an authorized Ziebart Dealer can use the amazing Ziebart sealant that actually penetrates welded seams to get in where rust can begin.

FACT: Only an authorized Ziebart Dealer can use the nine patented spray tools designed to reach every hidden or boxed-in area, where rust can get a foothold.

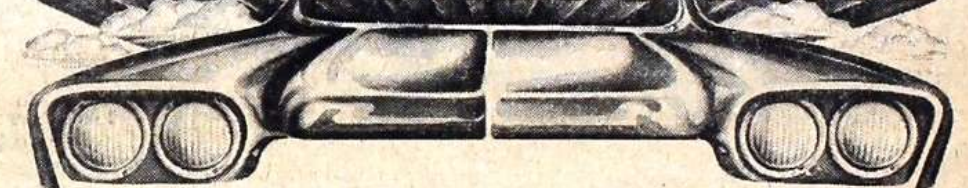

Separate the facts from the fiction and you'll find the only place to get real rustproof protection for your new car is from your Ziebart Dealer. He's the expert with the experience.

IT'S US, OR RUST.
